Claim Patrol Shot Up While Moving on Their Positions

Jerusalem — (U) — Syrians announced shooting resumed on the Syrian-Israeli frontier today.

A Damascus spokesman for the United Arab Republic's army said U.A.R. outposts shot up a 5-man Israeli patrol seen moving toward their positions and that Israeli machine gunners then opened fire.

The machine gun fire possibly was intended to cover the operation of dragging away the killed or wounded members of the Israeli patrol, the spokesman said.

Patrol Ambushed

"The patrol was ambushed by our fire and all its members fell down," he said.

At Tel Aviv, an Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said Syrian soldiers seemed to be clinging to fortified positions in the Tawafik area in defiance of a United Nations request that they withdraw.

Col. Raymond Piriou, Belgian chairman of the Israeli-Syrian mixed armistice commission, presented the request to the Syrians yesterday, the spokesman said.

Israel had demanded that the U.N. "adopt all necessary measures to bring about the immediate removal of Syrian military units" from the area, in a demilitarized zone south.

Olson Makes It Official; Opposes Kuehn

Tells Press He'll Stump Counties for Convention Backing

BY JOHN WINGAARD Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison—A contest for the 1960 Republican nomination for governor developed today when Jack Olson, 38-year-old Wisconsin Dells businessman, announced in Madison he will seek Republican state convention endorsement for the office in May.

Philip Kuehn, Milwaukee, also a business executive, announced his candidacy a month ago.

They will seek backing of party workers to run against Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson, who is reasonably certain to get his party's nomination for a second term without a contest in the September primary election.

Acknowledges Kuehn

Olson told a press conference this morning he will campaign county by county among Republican convention delegates for endorsement of the party organization.

He declined to answer, however, when he was asked whether he would drop out of the race if he fails to receive it. Kuehn has made his candidacy conditional on convention backing. Wisconsin has an open primary. A candidate can run without invitation of the party convention.

Olson called the 40-year-old Kuehn "a very capable young

Ike Turns Down Talk Of Around-Clock Alert

Gratified By Record On Missiles

Washington—(AP)—President Eisenhower today called America's missile development record quite gratifying. He rejected proposals for an around-the-clock bomber alert.

At a news conference, the president sided vigorously with Sec. of Defense Thomas S. Gates, Jr., and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, in their differences with Gen. Thomas S. Power, head of the strategic air command.

Eisenhower rejected Power's call for a continuous airborne, bomber alert, and also the general's contention that the United States faces danger of having its retaliatory striking force knocked out by Soviet missiles.

Eisenhower seemed to be a bit irritated when talking of Power's differences with Gates and the joint chiefs.

Too many of these generals have all sorts of ideas, he said.

The president warmly praised Gates and Twining and added that he has complete trust in both.

Eisenhower said further he believes he spent enough time in the military to know what he is talking about—and not to be disturbed by what he termed the parochial viewpoints of those who say the bosses know nothing about it.

Praises Nixon

A reporter asked whether Eisenhower feels there is a basic danger of defeatism developing among the American people.

He replied there is none in his soul, he would say that.

Eisenhower spoke warmly once more of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but again withheld specific endorsement of Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination. However, the president added he wanted to make it perfectly clear that he is not dissatisfied with, as he put it, the

Strike Opens At Flint Plant

UAW Members Walk Out at Big Chevrolet Plant

Flint, Mich. — (U) — A strike of 10,000 United Auto Workers today shut down the big Chevrolet manufacturing plant of General Motors here.

The strikers are protesting what they contend is a speed-up in the crankshaft department. UAW Local 659 voted to strike last Dec. 18 and filed 5-day notice of intent to strike last Thursday.

A company spokesman told newsmen that new crankshaft work standards are justified as a result of operating changes in that department and that fewer than 20 employees are involved directly in the dispute.

Record Storm Hits Halifax

Halifax — (U) — This Atlantic coast city and most of southern Nova Scotia was all but paralyzed today by the worst snowstorm in Halifax's weather history.

Twenty-five inches of snow had fallen by noon and it was still coming down. Winds up to 50 miles an hour blocked city streets and country highways with mountainous drifts.

Weather Pattern to Remain Unchanged

Crew Taken Off Burning Vessel

New Bedford, Mass., — (U) — Two explosions and fire today sent an $80,000 fishing dragger to the bottom of the sea—but not until its seven crewmen were rescued by a fellow fisherman at great peril.

The doomed vessel was the Star of the Sea, owned by Capt. Kevin Cleary, 61, of Boston, who was aboard as its skipper.

All seven were rescued by the fishing vessel, America, through an ingenious use of ropes and one damaged dory.

The America was damaged and nearly caught fire during the heroic rescue. A third fishing craft tossed a line aboard the America and towed her free of danger after all were rescued.

Saw Burning Ship

Capt. Joseph Rondeiro of Stonington, Conn., skipper of the America, said he was about two and a half miles away when he spotted the blazing Star of the Sea last night. He sped to the side of the dragger.

Rondeiro said all seven of the Star of the Sea crew, all New Englanders, were huddled on the bow as the flames ate their way toward them.

Some lifeboats and at least one life raft were in the water—but had been damaged in the explosion or the hasty launching.

With one damaged, water-filled dory between the two vessels, Capt. Cleary and Capt. Rondeiro arranged to tie a rope around each man. Cleary lowered them one by one, into the dory and then threw his end of the line to the America, so each crew man could be pulled up if the dory sank.

The operation was repeated with six ropes until only Capt. Cleary remained aboard his vessel.

Restful Night for Gen. MacArthur

New York — (U) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who is suffering from a urological disorder, spent a restful night, Lenox Hill hospital reported today. The medical bulletin said "his color is good and general appearance unchanged."

The general's morale was described as good.

Both reportedly pleased the 80-year-old general, who earned his varsity letter in 1903 as a baseball player at the academy.

Kindly Man Turns Killer

Hoosiers Amazed After Principal Shoots 2 Teachers and Himself

BY DON REEDER

Hartford City, Ind. — (U) — School Principal Leonard O. Redden, outwardly a placid man, is dead—driven by inner anguish to kill two women teachers and then himself.

Redden kept his private fears hidden behind a quiet smile until

Redden

Miss Robson Mrs. McFerrer yesterday. Then, before the unbelieving eyes of their pupils, he killed Miss Harriet Robson, 52, and Mrs. Minnie McFerrer, 62. Finally, in the woods where he used to hunt, he fired his shotgun into his own chest.

Why?

His wife, Hazel, a school teacher and mother of their two children, thought she knew.

"He was just plain off his head," she said sorrowfully.

"He thought he was the victim of gossip," The gossip linked him with Miss Robson—but, his wife said, it was all in his own mind.

The 44-year-old professional educator had been principal of Hartford City's three grade schools for nearly nine years. A decorated combat veteran of World War II, twice wounded, he also was superintendent of the First Christian church Sunday school.

Even after the shooting, teachers and friends of the principal in this neat little northern Indiana town couldn't conceive of Leonard Redden's doing such a monstrous thing.

A few recalled he had been irritable lately and quick to take offense, and that wasn't like him. But he remained outwardly calm in chance meetings and had the same gentle smile as always.

They didn't know Redden had been growing increasingly depressed since last spring. He was convinced Miss Robson herself was spreading rumors linking them romantically.

"Of course there was nothing to this idea," said the principal's wife, "but he couldn't throw it off. He chose to believe it and he couldn't be convinced it wasn't true."

Finally Redden agreed Monday to consult a psychiatrist

French Senate Expected To Vote Added Powers

Would Give Government Free Hand in Dealing With Rebels

BY HARVEY HUDSON

Paris — (U) — The French senate is expected to give quick approval today to the government's request for a free hand in dealing with the instigators of the Algiers settlers' revolt and to guard against new outbreaks.

The national assembly voted 449-79 earlier today in favor of the bill giving the government broad special powers.

Parliament was called back into extraordinary session to approve the special powers requested by the government and President de Gaulle.

They would enable the regime to legislate by decree for the next year in matters concerning maintenance of order, safeguarding the republic and pacification and administration of Algeria.

Must Be Ratified

The decrees must be submitted to parliament by April 1, 1961, for ratification or rejection. In the meantime they will have the full force of law.

The deputies insisted on writing into the bill a provision that De Gaulle must approve all decrees. This was hardly necessary since De Gaulle presides over cabinet meetings where decrees are adopted and commands the loyalty of the government.

The special powers bill will give De Gaulle and the government moral backing for any tough measures under consideration to punish extremist elements opposed to De Gaulle's Algerian policies.

Mother, 4 Small Children Die in Indiana Tragedy

Franklin, Ind. — (U) — A panel truck carrying a family of six rolled and caught fire after a collision yesterday, and a woman and her four small children died in the flames.

Only the husband and father, Francis H. Rogers, 41, Indianapolis, survived, and he suffered third degree burns trying to save the others. He was reported in fair condition today in Johnson County hospital here.

Dead were Mrs. Edith Rogers, 33, and the children, Sherrey Gail, 4; Leonard, 2; Donna Marie, 1, and Linda Laverne, 2 months.

The flaming truck stopped on its side.

Rightists Join Foreign Legion

Move Helps Them Avoid Inquiry by French Government

Algiers — (U) — About 100 rightists who helped stage last week's insurrection in Algiers have signed up with the Foreign Legion to avoid legal investigations, sources here said today.

They were the followers of jailed insurgent leader Pierre Lagailarde who marched out of the barricaded insurgent camp followed by 420 men.

The terms given all but Lagailarde—who is charged with endangering the security of the nation—was a hitch in the legion or a possible investigation which could lead to legal charges. Apparently some 300 of Lagailarde's men have decided to face such an investigation.

They were given 24 hours to make up their minds. The period ended yesterday.

Soil Bank Payments Listed as Income

Washington — (U) — The internal revenue service today ruled that payments and other benefits received by farmers under the soil bank law are to be listed as income on their federal tax returns.

IRS said this applies to both the acreage reserve and conservation reserve programs.

New Safety Program

Pennsylvania Tries To Cut Traffic Toll

Harrisburg, Pa. — (U) — A driver will go into effect March 2 in Pennsylvania.

Gov. David L. Lawrence announced the plan at a special news conference yesterday.

Sen. George Wade (R-Cumberland) said the new program was a usurpation of legislative powers, but he did not foresee any attempts to upset it in the legislature. Lawrence is a Democrat.

In putting the new program into effect by administrative order, the governor bypassed the legislature which pigeonholed the program in its 1959 session.

Its principal features include (1) re-examination of all drivers with two serious violations within a year and (2) medical examination every 10 years until age 60 and every 5 years after 60, starting in 1961.

Most traffic penalties will remain unchanged, but they will be tougher for speeding, racing, following too closely and reckless driving.

Older Drivers First

The physical examination program will start with the estimated 200,000 drivers who obtained their licenses prior to 1924. Drivers will get medical examination forms with their renewal applications. Present plans call for them to be examined by their doctor.

"This program will make Pennsylvania foremost in the field of traffic safety," Lawrence said.

Senate Approves Poll Tax Ban, 70-18

Wisconsin Senators Back 3-Part Amendment That Includes Giving Vote to District of Columbia

BY JOHN CHADWICK

Washington—AP—A three-in-one constitutional amendment proposal, including a ban on poll taxes, has cleared the senate.

Action now shifts to the house, which five times in the last 23 years has passed legislation to eliminate poll taxes by act of congress only to have the bills blocked in the senate by southern opponents.

The measure approved by the senate late Tuesday by a 70-18 vote not only contains the anti-poll tax provision but has two other parts that would:

Disaster Clause

Empower state governors to fill vacancies in the house temporarily if more than half of the members should be wiped out by an atomic attack or other disaster. Governors already can make temporary appointments to fill senate vacancies.

Permit residents of the district of Columbia, now voteless, to vote in presidential elections and to elect as many delegates to the house as the nation's capital would be entitled to if it were a state. The delegates would have such powers as congress conferred on them.

Although contained in one resolution, the three parts could be acted on separately by the house and by the states, which have final say on ratification.

Both Wisconsin senators voted with the majority.

The triple-headed constitutional amendment received 11 more votes in the senate than the two-thirds majority required. The house also must approve it by a two-thirds majority if it is to be submitted to the states for ratification.

States Must Ratify

The legislatures of three-fourths of the 50 states would have to ratify it within seven years to make it effective.

Twice before, in 1954 and 1955, the senate has approved the constitutional amendment sponsored by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) to let governors fill house vacancies in case of a disaster. Each time the house has ignored it.

This stirred up little debate in the senate, nor did the constitutional amendment of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N. Y.) to give District of Columbia residents the vote in presidential elections and the right to elect delegates to the house.

Poll Tax in 5 States

But southern senators put up a fight against the poll tax amendment of Sen. Spessard Holland (D-Fla.) It would make it unconstitutional to deny any one the right to vote for president or congress members because of failure to pay a poll tax.

Only five states—Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia—still require voters to pay a poll tax.

The senate approved the poll tax amendment after rejecting 50-37 a proposal by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N. Y.) to do the same thing by act of congress rather than by a change in the constitution.

This was the key vote in the dispute since even Javits and those supporting him preferred Holland's constitutional amendment to no action at all to eliminate the poll tax.

Titan Flight Raises U. S. Rocket Hopes

Feel Gap Can be Narrowed Between America, Russia

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—AP—

The successful firing of an inter-continental range Titan has raised America's hopes of narrowing the missile gap between this nation and Russia.

It also may provide the U.S. with a powerful new space vehicle.

For the first time in nine months, a Titan flew successfully Tuesday. The 91-foot missile roared from its pad and two minutes later its huge second stage ignited for the first time.

Largest Yet

The 24-ton second stage, generating 80,000 pounds of thrust, is the largest and most powerful ever fired in flight by the United States.

When operational, it will be able to hurl a nuclear warhead 9,000 miles, maybe farther. The upper stage was not fully fueled Tuesday and traveled only 2,000 miles.

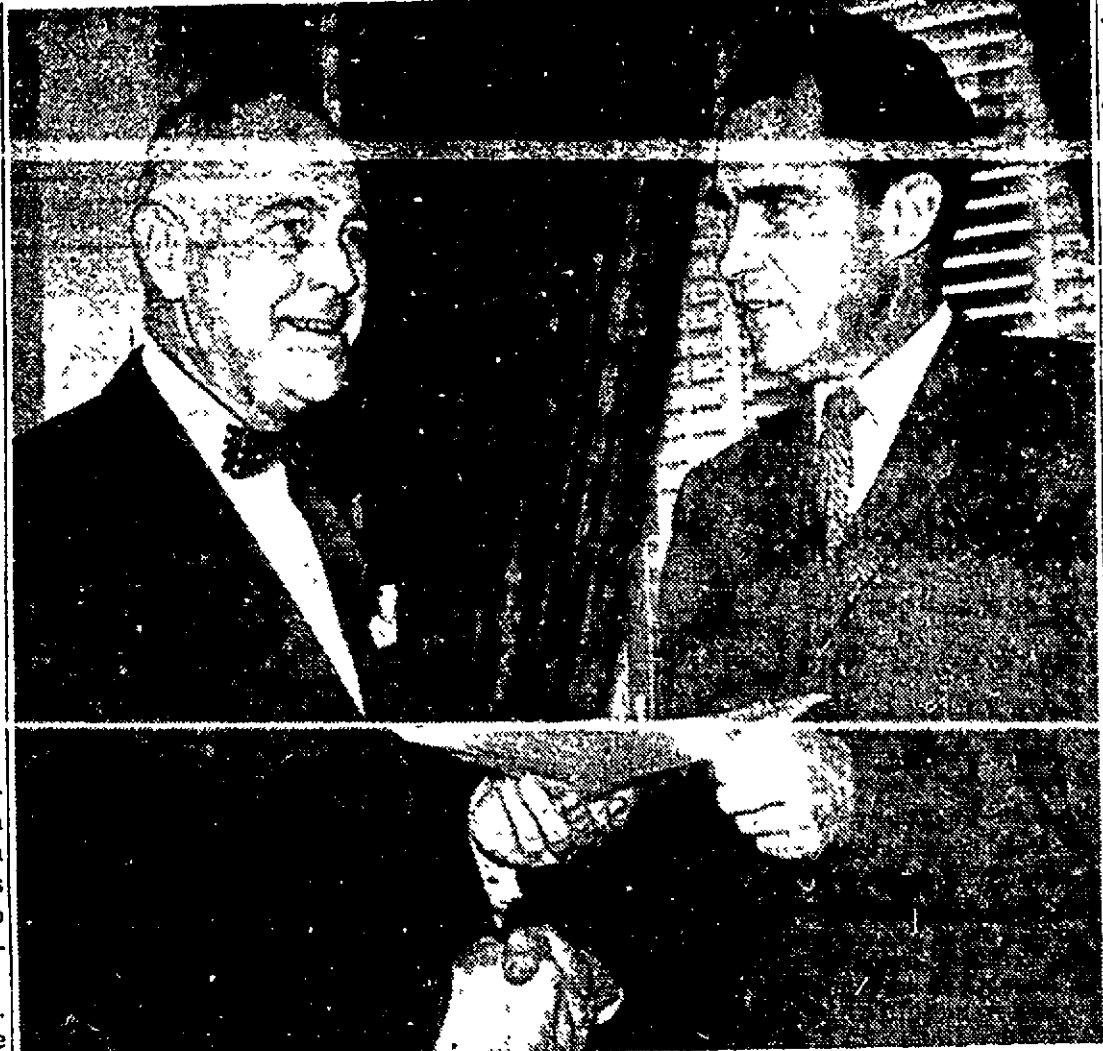

Top American military officials have told congressional committees recently that for the next three years, the Soviet Union will have a slight edge in number of intercontinental range missiles.

Narrow Gap

However, if the Titan continues to succeed and reaches operational status early next year, it could help narrow this gap. It would relieve some of the burden on the Atlas ICBM, which has been combat-ready for several months.

The firing of the Titan second stage at an altitude of about 27 miles demonstrated the feasibility of using large liquid-fuel engines for space exploration. This engine is five times more powerful than any previously ignited in flight by the free world.

The good shot may relieve some of the pressure put on the missile by critics who have advocated—because of the nine-month lapse—that the Titan program be canceled and more funds funneled to the Atlas.

Vice President Richard Nixon and Indiana Gov. Harold B. Hanley shake hands as they pose Tuesday in the vice president's Capitol Hill office. The governor hands Nixon a resolution by Indiana's Republican central committee endorsing him as the GOP presidential nominee, the first such action ever taken by the committee. Handley told newsmen later that Nixon agreed to enter his name in the May 3 Indiana Republican presidential primary.

Nixon Preparing His Own Farm Program For Campaign Battle

Expects Democratic Opposition; Will Air Proposals in Speeches

BY JACK BELL

Washington—AP—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is quietly getting ready to draft his own farm program for his expected campaign as the Republican presidential nominee.

President Eisenhower plans to send to congress this week a wide ranging program constructed on the recommendations of Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

While Nixon was consulted on broad policies, he had almost no hand in refining these proposals. However, he is certain to support them in line with his established policy of publicly backing all of the administration's suggestions to congress.

Nixon is well aware that Democrats intend to make a major issue in the election campaign of crop surpluses, declining prices and dwindling farm income. Democrats who now blame all of these on Benson's policies suspect the new program will be considerably less than satisfactory to them.

Anticipates Battle

Anticipating a battle in congress, Nixon is preparing to draft some proposals of his own. He will air them in later speeches, possibly before the Republican convention platform committee goes into action.

To get a cross-section of agricultural opinion, Nixon has been conferring quietly with a number of leaders in this field. He doesn't know yet, however, what final form his program will take or how much it may vary from Benson's. If this is regarded in some quarters as an effort by Nixon to draw away from Benson as a possible political liability, Democrats made it clear they intend to have a great deal to say about any such move.

Democrats' Viewpoint

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a candidate for his party's top nomination, said in an interview Democrats "aren't going to let Vice President Nixon wiggle out of any responsibility for the administration's farm program."

"Mr. Nixon has to take the responsibility for the Benson program and its failures," Humphrey said. "Mr. Benson has many faults but we can rely on his word that the vice president is one of the architects of the administration's bumbling, fumbling program."

Son, Stuart Symington (D-Mo), who is available for his party's presidential nomination, already has accused Nixon of "trying to avoid his proper responsibility for the farm depression we now face."

Wants Complete Program

Symington said he hopes Eisenhower submits a complete program "so that we will know what he wants."

"I give you my word, as a member of the agriculture committee who has heard Benson testify for years, I still don't know what this administration wants," he said.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said after a White House conference Tuesday that the new Eisenhower program will deal with conservation, wheat, tobacco, peanuts, sugar, emergency feed loans, REA interest rates, farmers home loan changes, crop utilization, research and rural development.

Satellites May Discourage Red Attack on U. S.

'Spy in Sky' Type Proposed by Air Force Experts

Washington—AP—Air force experts held out hope today that military satellites of the "spy in the sky" type may help discourage possible surprise missile attacks by Soviet Russia.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, chief of air force research, urged top priority for development of early warning, reconnaissance and communications satellites. They are now practically using "existing hardware and technology," he said, adding:

"They have a great potential for national security."

Schriever and Gen. Thomas S. Power of the Strategic Air Command testified publicly Tuesday before the senate space and preparedness committees. They return today, along with Gen. Thomas D. White, air force chief of staff, for closed-door testimony.

Both Schriever and Power agreed that during the next few years Soviet Russia would have enough long-range missiles to stage a surprise attack upon this country.

Both said that keeping a large part of the Strategic Air Command on an airborne alert with nuclear bombs ready—to avoid possible destruction on the ground—is the safest method to counter the Soviet missile threats.

Power said the $185 million asked in the defense budget to prepare for an airborne alert—with $90 million to be spent in the next year—was not enough.

He promised to spell out details behind closed doors.

Gov. Nelson Singles Out Budget Sores

Madison—AP—Gov. Gaylord Nelson Tuesday singled out 17 second-year budget "problem areas" he said were caused by senate rejection of his revised 1960-61 budget.

He asked the department of administration to prepare full reports "on each of the problem areas caused by the 1960-61 state budget. The $216,300,000 token budget, passed last July, became law when the governor's revised plan was killed.

The revised budget, the governor said, "transferred a total of $2 million from areas where it wasn't needed" to programs requiring increased funds.

The revised budget was rejected shortly after the governor delivered his "go home" speech to the legislature. It would have increased second-year spending by $1,560,000.

Missing Girl, Negro Found in New York

New York—AP—A university official's blonde daughter who skipped out on a Florida trip with her parents was found Tuesday night arm-in-arm with her Negro boyfriend in a Times Square movie house.

Dorothy Lebohnner, 18, disappeared Monday night from the Biltmore hotel suite of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Lebohnner.

Lebohnner, treasurer of Alfred university at Alfred, N. Y., and his wife were en route to Florida with their daughter to help her forget an interracial campus romance with a former basketball star.

After police found them at the movie, Miss Lebohnner and Warren Sutton, 21, of Chester, Pa., told officers they had walked all night, eaten at automats, and spent the day in movie houses.

Kennedy Files In Maryland

State's Delegates May Go to Senator Without Opposition

Annapolis, Md.—AP— Maryland's 24 votes in the Democratic presidential nominating convention were chalked up in the Kennedy column today.

How long they stay there, Gov. J. Millard Tawes indicated, may be another story.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) virtually clinched them on the first ballot in the July convention by entering the May 17 Maryland primary.

Warm Greeting

Tawes greeted him warmly at the filing ceremony yesterday in the Annapolis state house but said he was not endorsing anyone for the nomination "at the moment."

Kennedy challenged other major aspirants to match their vote—getting power against his on this predominantly Democratic testing ground, but there were no indications he would get any takers.

A spokesman for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), who will compete with Kennedy in the April 5 Wisconsin primary, said the Maryland situation was under study.

Limited campaign funds may prevent a Humphrey-Kennedy battle in Maryland, he said.

Supporters of Sens. Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas) and Stuart Symington (D-Mo) have said their hopefuls will by-pass state primaries.

Girl Found Guilty of Killing Boy

Boston, Texas—AP—A jury Tuesday found a 14-year-old girl guilty of juvenile delinquency in the shooting death of a younger boy who threw rocks and yelled at her brother, Billy, 8.

Frances Marie Kelley was tried for the death of 9-year-old Steve Fields last Dec. 22.

Members of the jury recommended that the girl be granted probation in custody of her father or some other competent person. Dist. Judge Robert Vance ordered a Feb. 15 hearing on her probation.

"I didn't mean to kill any one—just to scare those boys away," she said.

The girl said she fired twice into the ground before firing the fatal shot.

After the Fields boy dropped, she said she dashed into her home and gulped a handful of sleeping tablets.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fields, Garland, Texas. He was five miles east of here in extreme northeast Texas, for a Christmas vacation with relatives.

Detroit Looking Down On Compact Car Lines

Detroit—AP—The city of Detroit—of all places—is giving a cold shoulder to the smaller compact cars introduced this year by the automotive industry's big three.

Mayor Louis Miriani of the motor city Tuesday ordered police to hold up taxi licenses for such cars until he receives a report about their convenience as public transportation.

General Motors, maker of the Corvair; Ford, maker of the Falcon, and Chrysler, maker of the Valiant, declined immediate comment.

Accused Doctor to Tell His Story of Shooting

Court Rules Carole Tregoff's Sworn Testimony Can't be Used

BY DIAL TORGERSON

Los Angeles—AP—Dr. R. Bernard Finch, on trial for his life, takes the stand today to tell a story he has never before related in public: his account of the night his wife was shot to death.

Since Barbara Jean Finch was killed out of the couple's luxurious suburban home last July 18, the doctor has told authorities nothing of what happened that night.

The only indication of what he may say has come from an earlier suggestion by the defense that the 42-year-old doctor will maintain the shooting was accidental or in self-defense.

Finch's redhaired mistress, Carole Tregoff—accused with him of murder and conspiracy—has given her version three times, the last under oath at the doctor's preliminary hearing.

Testimony Void

The defense won Tuesday what it termed a major victory when the court ruled that Carole's sworn testimony may not be used against her. This means the prosecution cannot refer to what it calls damaging testimony by the 23-year-old former model.

Carole smiled with delight when Superior Judge Walter R. Evans made his ruling. At recess she kissed her attorney, Robert A. Neeb, on the cheek.

The court did rule, however, that two earlier statements Carole gave police be admitted in evidence. The prosecution closed its case Tuesday after reading these statements into the record.

In all three accounts, Carole said she and Finch drove from Las Vegas to the Finch home in West Covina July 18 so they could talk to the doctor's 36-year-old wife about the divorce she was seeking.

Carole's Story

At the home, Carole said, Mrs. Finch pulled a gun, the doctor grabbed for it, and she, Carole, ran.

But in the first two statements, to detectives, Carole didn't acknowledge carrying an attaché case belonging to Finch, which was found at the home after Mrs. Finch was killed.

In sworn testimony she said she had carried the case up the hill to the home. In the case—called a "murder kit"—were such items as sleep-inducing drugs, a clothesline, a butcher knife and pistol bullets.

Carole was arrested as she left the stand at the doctor's preliminary hearing last July 29 because, said the state, she had changed her story. The defense argued her testimony at the hearing should not be admitted because she was not told beforehand it might be used against her.

Eye Gets Guy Off And Startles Judge

Tacoma, Wash.—AP—Richmond Whitlock, 40, charged with drunken driving, bristled when two policemen testified Monday that his dilated eyes showed he'd been drinking.

"My eye is always dilated," Whitlock protested. With that he removed a glass eye and handed it to Judge William Le Veque.

"Case dismissed," said the startled judge.

WHY MILLIONS CHOOSE CHIROPRACTIC

Millions choose Chiropractic because they find that they can obtain quick and lasting relief from many of their ailments. Under Chiropractic care, common aches and pains clear up very quickly. Acute conditions such as colds or other "infectious" conditions break up in a fraction of the time required under other healing methods. # Storm Sewer In Ravine Postponed

Construction of a storm sewer in Bellaire ravine has been postponed by the street and sanitation committee until late fall or early spring. Committee members ruled that the sewer, sought by Ald. Ogilvie, will be included in the next storm sewer bond issue.

Other committee actions: Construction of sewer and water mains on Ullman street, Pershing street to the service road; sewer, grading and graveling on Owassa street, Lindbergh street to Highway 41, and water main, grading and graveling on Pershing street, McDonald street to Ballard road, all sought by Ald. Schumacher, were ordered for 1960.

Committee members asked the engineering department to obtain a sketch of what First English Lutheran church wants along its Ida street property. The church, at the last council meeting, said it wants some curbing removed.

Duszynski, Inspector Emmet, McCarthy and Civil Engineer Frank Keuler were authorized to attend a state board of health conference on sewer design problems Feb. 16 at Madison.

Won't Abandon Hope For 435 Trapped Miners

Coalbrook, South Africa—(U)—Mine officials refused to give up hope for the 435 miners entombed in Clydesdale colliery here since Jan. 21.

A senior official said reports that all the men were dead were premature.

"We deplore those who have given up hope," he added.

Another official said there was a good chance the men had fresh air and water, and that they had food for the 40 horses trapped with them in the mine.

Igpay Atinlay Easier, Arliechay, Than Ancient Palindrome Game

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The word "palindrome" is not yet obsolescent, but the penchant for creating palindromes has long gone from our society. Time was, however, when the fun of creating these reversible words or sentences was a common game for parties and social gatherings.

Today, a wide selection of reading material and the evil-eyed monster which sits in virtually every home, precludes the kind of fun folks once had when the palindrome was a popular mental exercise.

A palindrome is a word or a sentence which reads the same, either forwards or backwards. Perhaps the best and most widely-known palindrome concerned Napoleon. That one, both forward and backward, reads:

"Able was I ere I saw Elba."

That is a dandy example for it reads, and means, the same thing whether read from front to rear or from rear to front. Weaker palin-dromes changed the sense of the reading in the backward reading but the elegant palindromist of yesteryear sought perfection — and achieved it in phrases like, "Madam, I'm

Adam," and "Name no one man."

Centuries Old

A more competent researcher than the present one might scour history and find hundreds of interesting palin-dromes, but I have found only the better, longer-lived ones which may be more familiar.

People were playing palindromic games for many centuries. They were stimulating recreationally, and were — I suppose — a sort of crossword puzzle for the ancients. At any rate, the Romans and the Greeks of yes-

tery occupied themselves with the construction of palin-dromes.

The palindromes were dignified, too, for they sometimes appeared on churches and cathedrals. A Greek palindrome, in fact,

was inscribed on the mosque of St. Sophia in

back more than a thousand years. It translated to "purify the mind as well as the body."

Mostly, however, the palin-

drome was a recreational toy of literateurs and of other literate peoples who created such phrases as these:

"Snug & raw was I ere I saw war & guns," and "Draw pupil's lip upward," and "Red root put up to order."

Not So Easy

If you think the invention of a good palindrome is easy, you ought to try it. You'll probably want to start with some of the palindromic

names like Hannah and Adam, and some of the many words which are, in themselves, palindromes — like

"did."

But it was a skillful fellow, indeed, who put together such a phrase as "Lewd did I live, evil I did dwell," even though it cheats a little and drops the terminal "I" from the last word.

Dean Swift occupied himself with palindromes. In a letter to a friend he chose

Latin words which, in Latin, became phrases of gibberish, but each word, when

acceptable English. Like these: "Mi sana. Moto ima os illud dama nam?" If you need help on that one, it reads thus: "I'm an ass. O

Tom, am I so dull, I a mad

man?"

riod, a lady of "quality" was banished from the court because she was suspected of being too familiar with a nobleman who was a favorite of the queen.

Protests Innocence

As a protest of innocence,

the lady adopted a new crest,

a moon under a cloud, and a palindrome for a motto. The motto was the Latin, "Ablata

at Alba" which translates to "secluded, yet pure."

More than a century ago

someone wrote a long poem which employed palindromes

and which concerned palin-dromes. Though it is too lengthy to pretest here in toto

(and that's a palindrome),

here are some of the lines:

"A limner in photography dead-beat in competition,

Thus grumbled, 'NO, IT IS

OPPOSED: ART SEES

ITION,"

"A timid creature, fear-

rodents—mice and such small fry—

START AT RATS IN AIRY SPOTS' might cry."

"A simple soul whose wants are few, might say with hearty zest, 'DESSERTS I DESIRE NOT, SO LONG NO LOST ONE RISE DISTRESSED.'"

Well, let that start you off on the invention of palin-dromes—a game which is all but dead but which was once much fun to leave only to antiquity.

Citizens Complain of Water in Basements

Engineer Informs Council Violations Of Downspout Ordinance Cause Problem

Kaukauna — The common council was informed Tuesday night, 54 residents in the Whitney street area had downspouts draining into the sanitary sewer during the December rains, resulting in flooded basements in the area.

The matter came to light after Mrs. Anthony Domres and Mrs. Lucille Rabideau filed bills for water damages to their basements. The engineer reported he had found 54 violations of the downspout regulation and was instructed by the council to send individual notices to violators.

Homeowners are subject to fines if the notices are not complied with within 30 days. The engineer felt this would solve the backup problem of the area.

Dangerous Ponds
The public protection and safety committee was instructed to view low lots on Eighteenth street as possible spring 'drowning hazards. It was pointed out, about three feet of water has accumulated on some lots as a result of heavy rains recently.

Now the lots are being used as skating ponds but citizens are worried about danger when thawing starts. The committee was authorized to take steps to remedy the situation. Last year, similar situations were solved through ditching and pumping. A similar complaint about water accumulation between McKinley and Arthur streets was referred to the city engineer for correction.

Public Hearing
Fourteen citizens appeared at a public hearing in regard to rezoning Kaukauna Machine and Foundry division of Giddings and Lewis property from residential to light industrial. None objected to the rezoning, merely asked a clear idea of the property involved and what constituted light industrial.

When informed the property was all south of Highway 41 near the company parking lot and not too near residences, the citizens were satisfied, thus aldermen approved the recommendation of the planning commission to rezone the property.

The city engineer was authorized to begin a winter tree removal program with city crews. The engineer is to contact another firm in regard to removal of tree stumps. Aldermen voted to ask the county to correct a bump in the road on Lawe street or County Trunk J in the city.

Aldermen agreed bridge tenders should be offered casual work in the winter on a seniority basis and, if needed, will be paid union scale if they are paying union dues and are in good standing. Bridge tenders will also be questioned as to their feeling on having wages spread over a 12-month period rather than on the present basis, eight months.

Management Told to Work With Employees

Kaukauna — Dr. Howard Wilson, a representative of the management center at Marquette University, stressed the need for supervisors and management to understand and work in close harmony with employees in this changing world, at a meeting of the Thilco Management club Monday evening.

Dr. Wilson is on the National Management Association panel of speakers and spoke on, "Understanding People and Getting Along with Them."

Approximately 65 members of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company club met in the mill assembly room to hear the talk.

New Plat Approved By Little Chute Board

Hietpas and Lamers 20-Acre Area Has 34 Building Lots Off Freedom Road

Little Chute — Approval of a new 34-lot plat was given by the village board Tuesday night.

The new area, known as the Hietpas and Lamers plat is 20 acres in size. It lies north of Highway 41 and west of the Freedom road on the north edge of the village limits.

Approval was given with the stipulation that the village would not be responsible for any street maintenance until village residents were living along the plat road. The center-line of the 60 foot road in the plat is the boundary between Little Chute and the town of Vanden Broek.

Residents Benefit

The board explained that it felt that village equipment could not be used to maintain the road if there were no village residents to benefit from it.

Clarence Hammond of Kenneth L. Schellie and associate planning consultants talked briefly to the board. Hammond explained that his visit was the first of a monthly schedule of appearance before local governing bodies to keep them abreast of the work being done in regional planning.

Members of the election board were appointed for a 2-year term. Representatives for the Democratic party include Harold Janssen, Gen. rose Versteegen and Lloyd Vanden Heuvel. Those for the Republican party are Henry Dercks and Mrs. Barbara Vandenberg.

President Paul Kostka made the appointments to the election group and they were ratified by the village board.

Legion Request

Leo Lamers appeared before the board in behalf of the American Legion Jacob Coppus post. He said the post was interested in having the village ice skating rinks improved. Lamers said it was felt that rinks were not properly flooded or lighted and proposed that the project be turned over to the Legion.

The board agreed to furnish all necessary equipment for improving the rinks along with one member of the street department to watch water pressure on mains when rinks are being flooded.

Trustees praised the post for taking an interest in the rinks as a community project and termed it another in a long line of good deeds done by the Legion unit here.

Accepting a National Forensic League leading chapter award on behalf of Kaukauna High school is Francis DeBruin, faculty adviser, while Thomas Verhagen, student NFL president looks on. The award was made by Bruno Jacobs, center, national secretary of the NFL. The award is based on accumulation of points.

Heleen Koehn to Head Village Heart Campaign

Little Chute — Miss Heleen Koehn, 507 Pine street, has been named chairman of the Heart Fund drive in Little Chute for the house-to-house passing of heart envelopes. Miss Koehn will divide the community in areas with block captains appointed to distribute envelopes. Each captain will be responsible for the envelope and for returning it to the chairman after circulation.

A date for the drive has not been set. Miss Koehn is in the process of contacting volunteers to help with the campaign. An effort is planned to concentrate the drive into one week or a few days.

Kaukauna Confusion

Alderman Succeeds in Paying City $748 Sprayer Overage

Kaukauna — Fifth Ward Ald. George Luebke met with his specialized equipment. Luebke agreed, asked the city to set the charge. State charges allowed counties for similar equipment were $4 hourly, so that rate, was set. Initially, the program was estimated at $500, but aldermen and the mayor found requests for spraying snowball-ed.

No record of hours of use was kept by Luebke, but the city kept the sprayer records and the city clerk listed the charges among the regular bills. The sprayer worked 437 hours last year. Luebke got $1,748, but the legal limit is $1,000, a caller informed him. Luebke checked with the city attorney, then decided to repay the overage.

The $4 hourly charge required Luebke to furnish gas, oil and maintenance for the jeep sprayer rig. The alderman said he purchased two tires, repaired two high velocity pumps, repaired the pumping device frame and generally had a high maintenance cost for the summer—about a third of the rental fee.

3 Teachers at Combined Locks Earn Degrees

Combined Locks — Three teachers from Combined Locks State Graded school received their bachelor degrees from Oshkosh State college at mid-term as a result of attending Saturday classes, extension courses and summer school sessions. Earning degrees were Russ Jahns, Kaukauna, sixth grade teacher; Mrs. Marie Couillard, Kimberly, third grade teacher, and Mrs. Angela Huebner, Forest Junction, eighth grade teacher on a half-time basis.

By the end of the year, six of the instructors will have bachelors degrees and one masters degree, according to Wayne Hull, principal. The remaining five teachers are enrolled in night classes or summer school and are in various stages of getting degrees.

Pardons and Secrecy

Gov. Gaylord Nelson has agreed to ask Atty. Gen. Reynolds to review procedures now followed on pardon applications with a view to determining how much of the record is available for use in news stories. The question came up at a news conference recently when reporters told the governor that access to the records is more restricted under the present pardon counsel than in the past.

While no mention was made of the Christmas pardon granted by Gov. Nelson to Donald E. Bronston, that case obviously was in the minds of both the governor and the reporters. The governor's office came in for considerable criticism on that pardon after newsmen learned of it by a chance search of the files rather than through an official announcement by the governor's office. When newspapers charged that the news of the pardon had been concealed, the governor's publicity men denied this saying it was not the policy to conceal pardons but neither was it the practice to announce them.

The statement didn't go over very big with the newsmen and when it later was discovered that the state parole board had only recently deferred action on Bronston's application there was even a stronger case for publicity of the matter. In fact it appeared that the parole board and the governor's pardon counsel, who should have been working very closely together, were definitely suffering from a lack of liaison which could have been corrected by ordinary newspaper publicity.

When the public criticism of the manner in which the news of the pardon was handled was at its peak the Post-Crescent received a communication from the governor's press officer attempting to explain the situation. This letter brushed the matter aside and blamed the delay in reporting the news on newspapermen's failure to look in the proper files. The letter was accompanied by a statement by Thomas Pierce, pardon counsel for the governor, who gave the history of the Bronston case from the time of the man's arrest to the time of his pardon.

The case as presented by Pierce is not an unreasonable one and undoubtedly would have been accepted by a great many people as justifying the pardon. Many others would have disagreed. Nevertheless, it is certain that the appearance of secrecy practiced more or less deliberately was the chief reason for criticizing the governor's action. If the material mailed out to newspapers after the fact of the pardon was discovered had been made available in the first place there would have been very little criticism. Furthermore, if there had been advance publicity on the pardon investigation the matter might have been straightened out between the parole board and the pardon counsel before any action was taken.

The governor has agreed to look into this matter in good spirit and evidently with the private conviction that there should be closer contacts between his official representatives in the fields of paroles and pardons. This is highly commendable and we think the governor will profit considerably by setting some matters straight among the members of his own official family.

Reapportionment and the Courts

Three federal judges in a district court in Tennessee have ruled they have no right to intervene in a dispute to force reapportionment of the Tennessee legislature although the court admitted a "clear violation" of the United States constitution was involved.

This was a discouraging development for persons in other states where the legislature is dominated by a minority of voters in the rural areas. However, the citizens who brought the action say the decision will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court. The case was brought after a federal court in Minnesota had accepted jurisdiction in a reapportionment case. In Minnesota, however, the legislature did not wait for court action but redistricted the state for the first time in 46 years.

The Tennessee state solicitor general who succeeded in having the case dismissed said the decision followed many precedents established by the supreme court. This is true. It is notable that many courts, both federal and state, have been reluctant to undertake such cases.

However, it has been said, and we think proved, that the supreme court follows the election returns. In this case, the election returns will show that the urban populations have the votes and the power, and therefore courts will recognize with this support that they, too, will have the power to enforce the constitutional requirements. Those petitioning in Tennessee declared that under the 14th Amendment they were entitled to relief from the inequitable distribution of legislative seats and also that they were entitled to equal protection of the law. It was pointed out that Tennessee was living under an apportionment law adopted in 1901. The petitioners asked that members of the 1961 legislature be elected at large or that a new apportionment of seats be ordered by the court.

Three judges agreed that the legislature had been "guilty of a clear violation of the constitution and of the rights of the plaintiffs" and that "the evil is a serious one," which should be corrected without further delay.

"But even so the remedy in this situation does not lie with the courts. It has long been recognized and is accepted doctrine that there are some rights guaranteed by the constitution for the violation of which the courts cannot give redress."

The judges pointed out that the seats in the Tennessee legislature are apportioned on the number of qualified voters, not population alone, and that only the state has power to make the special enumeration. Further, the court said that attempts to set up legislative districts by decree "would constitute the clearest kind of judicial legislation and unwarranted intrusion upon the political affairs of the state."

In other words, we have here a situation in which a great many people, perhaps even a majority in the state, are living under a recognized wrong for which there is no remedy. The courts seem to feel they cannot do anything in this instance, perhaps fearing that their ruling would not be enforced. However, the majority of the people have a way of getting what they want and if most of the courts will follow the election returns closely enough they undoubtedly will find courage to make the necessary rulings.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 14, 1860.
Gov. (Alex. W.) Randall's message appears at some length in our columns. We ask every man to read it carefully.
It is full of sophistry and false reasoning, and nearly one-third of it is devoted to Negro Servitude, a matter over which the people of Wisconsin have no control and for which they are in no way responsible. If an effort had been made to introduce Negro Servitude in our State, it would have been eminently proper for the Governor to discuss it in his Message. As it is, this labored effort is farcical in the extreme.
The Governor wants another insufficient tax laid for State purposes — an electioneering trick unworthy of his position. He defends the expensive, incongruous and perjury breeding assessment law of last session; nicely covers up the state equalization of 1859, adroitly fails to state the whole story relative to the trumped-up claim for more swamp lands, and plays handsomely into the hands of the Bank Nabobs who curse Wisconsin with a paper currency.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Jan. 30, 1935
The state senate, after an oratorical battle, adopted the Brunette resolution for a legislative investigation of charges that communistic activities and the teaching of atheism and other perverse subjects is permitted at the University of Wisconsin and other state educational institutions.
The Fitzsimons bills to eliminate married women from industry so as to create jobs for men evoked a storm of protest when subjected to first public hearing before the assembly public welfare committee.
More than 300 persons crowded the circuit courtroom at the courthouse to attend the hearing held by the Wisconsin Highway commission on the proposed routing of Highway 41 through the county. Testimony was overwhelmingly in favor of the change.
Arthur H. Mueller was elected president of the Appleton Restaurant association. Alfred E. Petrie was named secretary-treasurer.
Paul Krings, Winneconne, was elected chairman of the sugar beet growers from four counties who met at Hortonville to discuss plans for administering the program.

The state public service commission was to order gas utilities in Wisconsin to reduce natural gas rates starting Feb. 7, John Doerfer, commission chairman, said that day.
The United States, pressing the atomic arms race with Russia, was reported to be hopeful that it could explode its first hydrogen bomb next year — if not sooner.
Raymond P. Dohr, Appleton, Outagamie county corporation counsel, received a certificate of commendation from the United States Army for services rendered during the North African campaign.
Mrs. Mary Yonts was installed as president of the Betsy Ross club, past presidents of the J. T. Reeve circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. Mrs. Albert Giesen was installed as vice president and Mrs. John A. Weber as secretary treasurer.

What Others are Saying
Rockefeller's Qualifications,
Record, Not Fully Appreciated

From The New Bedford, Mass., Sunday Standard-Times
It is unlikely that the American voters, whether Republican, Democratic or independent, fully realize the caliber of the man who has withdrawn from the GOP presidential contest.
Nelson A. Rockefeller, 51, governor of New York State and scion of one of the nation's great fortunes, has put much of his wealth and his own labors into public service — at home and abroad — with telling impact.
Six times, he has taken major posts in Washington, under the last three presidents.
He is credited with having fostered the concept that grew into the nation's post-war Point 4 program on foreign aid under President Truman.
An outstanding authority on hemispheric relations, he persuaded President Roosevelt in 1940 to promote the "good neighbor" policy in Latin America's 20 republics.
Rockefeller conceived the idea of exporting U. S. technical know-how to friendly, lesser-privileged nations.
He headed President Eisenhower's advisory committee on government organization, effecting major changes in state and defense departments and establishing the department of health, education and welfare. In 1953, Rockefeller drafted major plans in the president's welfare program.
As Eisenhower's special assistant on foreign policy in 1954, he sat in on cabinet meetings and conferences of the National Security Council's board, and was recognized as a specialist in waging peace in a world of "cold war."

Leaving this government post in 1955, as president of the Rockefeller foundation he rounded up top experts to study various problems of national life. The first of these projects, on U. S. security, resulted in a far-reaching report on American defense, summarizing the thinking of some of the nation's best military, scientific and industrial minds. Subsequent projects which he organized, ranging from economics to foreign policy, were similarly provocative and influential.
As holder of the nation's most important governorship, and certainly the most demanding, he has established, within the short space of 12 months, an admirable record for far-sighted, business-like administration.
Personally, he is, and always has been, an individual of the simplest habits and one of the country's hardest-working men. The scope of tasks obviously within his ability is virtually immeasurable; at one point in his career, he managed an organization of 35,000 persons with a $6,000,000,000 annual budget.
Even in wondrous America, with a tradition of producing administrative "giants," there are few such men as Rockefeller.
Rockefeller removed himself from the presidential competition because he believed any attempt by him to gain the nomination "would entail a massive struggle" which would take so much of his time and energy that he could not fulfill his obligations as chief executive of the state of New York.
This decision is characteristic of the man.
Inexplicable as it may be to some politicians and observers, Nelson Rockefeller is unwilling to neglect his office as governor or to plunge his party into internal conflict, even though the stake is the Republican nomination for president.
The governor's national stature, because of what he has done, is greater than ever before. For this reason alone, the day will inevitably come when Rockefeller again will be offered an opportunity to serve the United States, and millions of Americans unquestionably are looking forward to that time.
(A Wisconsin man who traveled with the Rockefeller party in the middle west observed that close association with Rockefeller won him many friends. But when he spoke in public there just wasn't the touch to make a successful campaigner. How did Rockefeller ever get elected governor of New York state? The Wisconsin man wondered. — ED.)

The Dentists' Contribution
BY HARRY GOLDEN
There were three types of healers on the Lower East Side of New York. There were the doctors, dentists, and the barbers. The doctors, of course, carried their satchels, and so did the barbers. So, too, said O. Henry, did the safe crackers who carried their nitroglycerine and crowbars in a medical bag to gain immunity from the police on their way to and from blowing open safes.
The doctors carried scalpels, medicine, and pills. On the Lower East Side patients trusted only medicine administered with a spoon. A pill was a mysterious wonder and if the doctor prescribed pills there was always a little suspicion he wasn't doing his job.
The more bitter the medicine, the more therapeutic its values, we thought. The barbers carried "bonkiss" in their satchels. Literally, "bonkiss" means cupping. It is a therapy allied to the old-time belief in the efficacy of leeches and bleeding. Since barbers were the applicators of leeches, they inherited "bonkiss" too.
Always Felt Better
"Bonkiss" consisted of about a dozen glass cups filled with cotton dipped in alcohol. The barber heated each cup with a lit taper and then applied it quickly to the patient's back. The heat made the cup adhere to the skin and the patient always said it made him feel better. In those days barbers also carried a pair of tongs so that they could pull a tooth in case of emergency.
No one went to a dentist unless he had to. A dentist was identified with extreme emergency and extreme pain. The richest dentist in history must have been Painless Parker over in Brooklyn. He had ads in every subway and bus. "Painless Parker — Painless Dentistry." His office was a huge building, almost a factory. And it wasn't too painful, either.
Dentistry has come a long way from the days of Painless Parker and the endemic fear that gripped us when we had to go to his office. It is painless today. We tell a child it won't hurt today, and the children believe us implicitly. The general public no longer believes of a dentist that he is a man who pulls teeth but rather that he is a man who saves them. This whole thing has come

Under the Capitol Dome
Tax Study in Middle Of State Political Fight

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison — There is more in the Republican insistence that the legislature wait for the report of the citizens' tax study commission than meets the eye.
On the face of it there will appear to most persons to be some logic in the idea that, since the state has set up this costly and "blue ribbon" commission, the lawmakers should wait for its findings before they attempt patchwork and temporary revision of the state revenue system. Since the prospective deficit in the state treasury will fall in the second year of the biennium the legislature really has no immediate pressure upon it.
But there is another reason for this Republican legislative strategy which was successful when Gov. Nelson and the legislative Democrats surrendered to the Republican proposal for a recess until May 16.
It is the chance that this study commission will come up with a recommendation that will be difficult for Gov. Nelson as the leader of his party to accept, and equally difficult to repudiate.

Wyngaard

or even a couple of them, is through a high producing revenue plan grafted to the present system — and that almost surely nominates the sales tax.
THE POLITICS
Gov. Nelson and the thoughtful Democrats surrounding him know that as well as anyone else. Doubtless their knowledge inspired the anxiety with which they pushed for a final adjournment of the legislature and a temporary patching of the state budget problem. That would have permitted the commission to proceed at its leisure and to compose a report later in the year, probably after the next election. It would have permitted Gov. Nelson as a candidate to avoid a commitment on the sensitive question of tax alternatives.
But the Republicans saw through that strategy, and insisted upon a legislative recess to await the commission's conclusions. The fact that the legislature remains in session amounts to some pressure, subtle as it is, for an expeditious working of the study group. The chances now are good that there will be a report before the legislature in May.
If it encompasses a sales tax it will be an awkward time for the Democratic governor. He probably won't be able to espouse it without running the risk of alienating influential segments of his own followers — including many who have not followed the research findings closely. But he could not gracefully repudiate the report either, after his own staff had coined the phrase "blue ribbon" to describe its stature and quality, after he had proposed its creation, and after he had repeatedly said that a courageous, comprehensive review of tax problems is one of the major goals of his administration.
Whether it likes the idea or not, this commission is squarely involved in the central struggle in state politics in Wisconsin today.

THE OUTLOOK

Most observers who have followed the work of this commission—and it has had the most intensive and respectful attention from the statehouse news corps — are guessing that it will come up with a sales tax proposal in some form.
That is not say there has been any reliable nose counting thus far, or that the commission members themselves have yet had anything resembling a roll call expression on the subject. Indeed, most of the activity thus far has been through subcommittees and it has been vague and general enough.
It is rather that the sales tax proposal is implicit in the assumptions and the attitudes of the commissioners as individuals and as a group.
They have informally assumed that the state should abandon the income surtax, that it should act to reduce property taxation in the aggregate significantly, that it ought to try to relieve the inequities of the personal property tax, and also find the money for the current state deficit and the additional revenue requirements that loom inevitably for the next decade or so.
The only practicable method for achieving those goals, they have assumed, is a sales tax.

Area Sewer Trunk Charge Endorsed

Street Committee Votes to Send Ordinance Draft to Works Board

The long-awaited and somewhat controversial area assessment scheme for construction of sanitary sewer interceptors and feeder lines has been endorsed by the city council's street and sanitation committee.

The policy, written by Director of Public Works Duszynski after many meetings, some of them of the entire city council, will be forwarded to the board of public works for final scrutiny.

Generally, the policy is designed to remove the cost load for fringe area sanitary trunks and feeders from the general property tax by making those who benefit pay.

Create Districts

The policy would be effective retroactive to Jan. 1. It would require:

Creating sanitary sewerage districts by council resolution as the trunk and feeder work is proposed. The districts could be expected to follow closely the boundary lines proposed earlier by Duszynski.

Within each district, property owners would pay the total cost of trunk and feeder construction, with one reservation. The reservation: The total cost would be reduced first by the amount of money collected in per front foot assessments from property owners who hook directly to the trunk or feeder. The area assessment would be so much per square foot on land. It would be made against all assessable property. (City, county, state and federal property is not assessable. This includes street right-of-way.)

Bill Later

When a district is half in the city and half out, the area assessment which cannot be collected now will be made a record and the amount of the charge will be billed when the land enters the city and is billed for sewer hookup.

The policy will not disturb the local sanitary sewer charge, which is determined each year on the basis of competitive bids. In other words, property owners in the fringe districts will pay for the trunk or feeder and the local sewer down their street.

Property which is in the already builtup area of the city and property which cannot be placed in a sanitary district will not have an area charge.

Duszynski said the policy is in ordinance form and was patterned after similar ordinances in Madison. He said the form has been approved by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities' legal department.

Outstanding Farmers Named at Annual Jaycee Award Banquet

Donald Pennings, owner of a 60-acre farm at route 1, Appleton, was named outstanding young farmer of the year at the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce annual young farmer award dinner Tuesday night.

Norbert Van Hoof, route 2, Kaukauna, was second place winner and Gordon Kieffer, route 2, Kaukauna, was third place winner.

A plaque and certificate of award was presented to Pennings by Ray Ulman, dinner chairman. He was given a watch by William Selle, representative of the George Walter Brewing company.

The winners were selected from 37 nominees. Judges were Leonard Warner, agriculture instructor at the Appleton Vocational and Adult school, Russell Luckow, Outagamie county farm and home development agent, and Bert Weyenberg, owner of a farm at route 3, Appleton.

Pennings owns 60 acres of land and operates an additional 200 rented acres with his brother. He began farming in 1949, and now has 68 milk cows and a total of 100 head.

Among improvements on his farm are a milk parlor, loose housing and bunk feeding system, and automatic silage unloader.

Pennings is active in the Appleton Young Farmer's club, is a 4-H leader and is active in soil conservation work.

Van Hoff operates a 115-acre farm in the town of Kaukauna and in 1959 produced over 400,000 pounds of milk from 30 cows. He has increased the production of his land 100 per cent in the last 10 years and grows almost all his own feed. He is a member of the Appleton Young Farmer club.

Kieffer operates a 107-acre farm in the town of Kaukauna and in 1959 produced 430,000 pounds of milk from about 30 cows. He also has an income from poultry and hogs. He is active in the Young Farmer club.

All three men have attended agriculture classes at the Appleton Vocational and Adult school.

Guest speaker Dr. Daniel Palm, biology instructor at Wisconsin State college, Oshkosh, traced the development of science from its beginning in primitive society.

Science and Magic

He said primitive tribes had little concept of science, and used magic to encourage such things as crop growth.

Over the ages, three types of scientists have developed: the basic or "thinking" scientist, the applied scientist or laboratory man, and the business manager scientist who dictates ideas and promotes research.

He said our society now demands only the laboratory men. Without the "thinkers" to feed them ideas, the applied scientist will soon run dry, he declared.

The thinkers now are usually university research men because they do not produce enough concrete things for the business and military world to warrant their support.

Sewer Problem To be Studied

Kaukauna Probes Storm Water in Sanitary System

Combined Locks — Village board members Tuesday night heard a complaint from Kaukauna officials about surface water draining into the sanitary sewer system causing problems for the city sewage plant.

Kaukauna handles sewage from the village on a fee basis and during recent heavy rains the sewage plant has been overloaded, much caused by storm water draining into sanitary sewers, according to Kaukauna officials.

Village board members agreed to undertake an investigation of the complaint by checking residences in the community which might be causing problems. The board agreed to notify citizens to refrain from having downspouts drain into sanitary sewer lines and to review the Reichelt was arrested by Combined Locks Police Chief Ernest Danielson about 8:15 p. m. Sunday and charged with drunken driving. The arrest was made after a citizen complained Reichelt was driving erratically and had forced him off the road.

Danielson reported Reichelt made a feeble attempt to outrun him but became stalled when his car ran into a dirt pile at the end of a dead end street. The man refused to take the drunkometer test.

Nelson Forms Committee to Aid Farmers

Unit to Study Ways to Increase Income on Farms

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson Tuesday named 35 Wisconsin farm leaders to a state dairy farm policy committee directed to seek ways of raising farm income.

The governor said he has asked the group to base its proposals on a report expected in a few days from a University of Wisconsin report analyzing dairy marketing problems.

Howard Carpenter of Ellsworth was designated chairman of the policy group. He is president of the Wisconsin Creameries association and vice chairman of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture cooperative's dairy section.

Kenneth Wallin of Shawano, former chairman of the state board of agriculture, was named vice chairman. Robert G. Lewis, the governor's agricultural coordinator, will serve as the group's secretary.

Committee Members

Other members of the policy committee are Paul Affeldt of Sparta, Arnie Agnew of Milton Junction, Clarence Ahrens of Prairie du Chien, Fred Galli of Monroe, William F. Groves of Lodi, Owen K. Halbert of Eau Claire, Percy S. Hardman of Hartland, Edward Iverson of Colfax, Arthur Jepsen of Black Creek, and Lawrence H. Johnson of Algoma.

Warrant Issued For Parolee; Seek Missing Girl

Chilton — A warrant for the arrest of Phillip Hephner, route 4, Chilton, charging him with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, has been obtained by Calumet County District Attorney Franklin Schmieder.

Hephner, 33, a federal parolee, is being sought along with a 16-year-old, route 4, Chilton girl who was last seen in his company Saturday night at a dance.

Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky has issued a statewide alert. An order to hold the girl for a juvenile court appearance was signed by County Judge David H. Sebor.

Hephner was paroled last August from the federal prison at Terre Haute, Ind., where he served seven years of a 9-year term for bank robbery. He was a member of a family trio which robbed two northern Illinois banks in 1952.

Renew Foxes' Field Pact

City to Receive $2,000 or Percentage Of Gate Receipts

The Fox Cities Foxes' contract with the city for use of Goodland field was renewed Tuesday by the recreation commission.

Club officials during the discussion again mentioned their desire to have a roof over the grandstand. Commissioners again pointed out money is the big problem.

Percentages Set

Commissioners also explained that some $538 has been spent to repair cracks in the grandstand and another $1,200 will go for sandblasting all seats and repainting them gray.

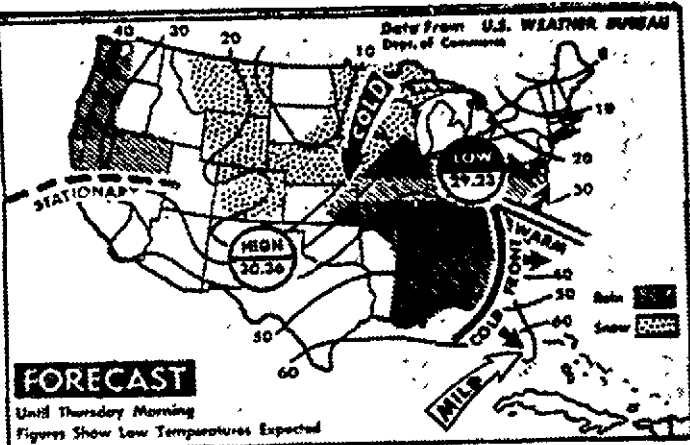

The Foxes contract requires the club to pay the city $2,000 or a percentage of gate receipts after federal amusement taxes, whichever is greater.

The percentage stipulation is 5 per cent of the first $20,000, 6 per cent of the next $20,000, 7 per cent of the next

Annual Auto Show Will Feature 40 New Cars

Forty makes of models of 1960 automobiles will be on display Feb. 11 to 13 at the fifth annual Valley Fair auto show.

Over 50,000 people visited last year's display.

The show will be held in the Valley Fair mall and sales representatives of 10 Appleton car dealers will distribute literature and explain automobile features.

The models exhibited will be domestic and include new compact cars.

Show hours will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. There will be no charge for the show or parking. Winnebago county police will assist with traffic direction in the parking area. Parking for 2,000 cars is available. Organ music will be featured.

The tour will give Fox Cit-

$20,000 and 10 per cent for all over $60,000.

If the Foxes play any home games outside Goodland field, they must pay the city $50 per game.

Concession rights are awarded the club under the contract. Club officials said the Baltimore Orioles, new parent organization for the Class B affiliate, were highly pleased with the park, particularly the infield. They were impressed with the tear-drop design of the pitchmg mound, first of its kind they had seen, it was reported.

Other Action

The street committee's new alley line falls through the center of Mrs. Molphy's property. Commissioners said they would withhold a decision until they personally view the property.

In other commission action: The First Addition to Gillett Highlands, a plat of the northwest corner of the city, was approved.

Approval was withheld from the final Hansen-Bassett plat while the field survey is completed. Monument markers are needed, it was explained, so that city-required easements can be legally described.

Ordered held until Ald. Stumpf can appear was the rezoning plea of Fred Ernst for the property at the southeast corner of Calumet and Jefferson streets. He wants a change to 2-family district.

Four Runaway Freight Cars loaded with pulpboard bound for Menasha were derailed about 1:15 a.m. today at Hilbert when they slammed into a freight train pulling about 20 cars out of a siding. About 250 feet of side track was ripped up.

Freight Cars Derailed at Hilbert Yards

Pulpboard Bound For Menasha in Railroad Accident.

Hilbert — Four Milwaukee Road freight cars loaded with pulpboard were derailed and about 250 feet of track ripped up here at about 1:15 a.m. today when seven cars ran out of control and struck the side of a switching freight.

A northbound freight had picked up some 20 cars from a siding when the seven freight cars "got away," railroad workers said, and rolled into the side of the train. Four cars left the track with two overturning down a steep embankment.

The derailed cars were bound for Menasha, a railroad official said. He declined to estimate the amount of damage and said the incident is being investigated.

The accident took place on a side-track and the main line was undamaged. Service continues.

Ike Rejects Proposals for Steady Alert

individual who looks as though he has the nomination.

That was a clear allusion to Nixon, now regarded as a shoo-in for the GOP standard.

A reporter told Eisenhower that some California Republicans seemed to be rather surprised that he had made no mention of Nixon in his political speech in Los Angeles a week ago.

The newsman asked whether Eisenhower intended to stand by his announced policy of endorsing no one for the nomination prior to the party's July convention, even though Nixon apparently will have no opposition.

Other Possibilities
Eisenhower said the outcome now does appear to be academic, but he went on to say that actually there are a number of Republicans — big men, he called them — who could be considered for the nomination.

In view of that, he said, he has followed what he believes to be the correct course of endorsing no individual.

As for making no mention of Nixon in his Los Angeles talk, Eisenhower recalled that he has praised Nixon in the past. He said he is sure Nixon is not unaware of his sentiments about him.

Also in the political field, Eisenhower was asked whether he is concerned about the possibility the Republican party needs more vigor and more crusaders.

With a smile, Eisenhower replied he has no doubt the party needs more recruits. He said he would like to see the party tell its story more fully, more eloquently and more often.

Favors 4-Year Terms
Eisenhower came out for amendment of the constitution to provide for election of members of the house of representatives to 4-year terms instead of the present two years.

He also called for a constitutional change which would give presidents power to veto individual items in appropriation bills.

At present, if there is an objectionable item in an appropriation bill, the president's only choice is to veto the entire bill or accept the entire bill, including the objectionable item.

The president also endorsed a bill approved yesterday by the senate, calling for three other amendments to the constitution: (1) elimination of the poll tax in federal elections, (2) giving residents of the District of Columbia the right to vote for president and vice president, and (3) permitting state governors to fill vacancies in the house in event a majority of the members are killed by some disaster.

Eisenhower said he believes it would be a good idea to revise the atomic energy law to permit greater exchange of atomic information with trustworthy allies.

As to whether U. S. allies should be given nuclear weapons, Eisenhower said he believes the law should be more liberal on that point.

We should not deny to trusted allies what nuclear information potential enemies already have, he continued. He was not specific as to just how he would like to see the law revised.

Typical Maneuver
Eisenhower said he favors keeping U. S. negotiators at Geneva just as long as there is any hope of working out an agreement with Russia and Great Britain on banning nuclear tests.

On another matter of negotiations with the Soviet Union, Eisenhower said U. S. Russian talks on the Soviet World war II lend-lease account apparently collapsed when Russia tried to win consideration of other matters at that conference. He called that a typical Russian maneuver.

Eisenhower deprecated the "spirit of Camp David" tag which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Russian officials have hung on the talks held last September at the president's Maryland mountain retreat, Camp David. Eisenhower said the talks were conducted there in a

Freak Accident Kills Detroit At Madison Port

Milwaukee — An unusual accident has pushed Wisconsin's highway death toll to 58, three less than on this day a year ago.

Eugene Spears, 37, a Detroit, Mich., father of four children, was killed Tuesday near Madison's Municipal airport when a loose, bouncing truck wheel smashed the windshield of his loaded auto-carrier.

Dane county authorities said the rear wheel came loose from the axle of a northbound milk truck driven by Richard Whaley of Endeavor. It rolled into the side of a southbound truck, then bounced into the windshield of Spears' vehicle.

Anthony Quinn Sues Yul Brynner

Santa Monica, Calif. — Actor Anthony Quinn has sued actor Yul Brynner and two film corporations for $1,150,000.

In a complaint filed Tuesday, Quinn alleged breach of an oral agreement. He said he and Brynner were to buy a literary property, "The Magnificent Seven," for a movie. Instead, Quinn claims, Brynner bought the literary rights through Alciona International corporation.

Quinn sued Brynner and Alciona for $500,000 each. He asked $150,000 from United Artists corporation for loss of his services as an actor in the proposed production.

friendly atmosphere. That, he went on, is all the spirit of Camp David amounted to.

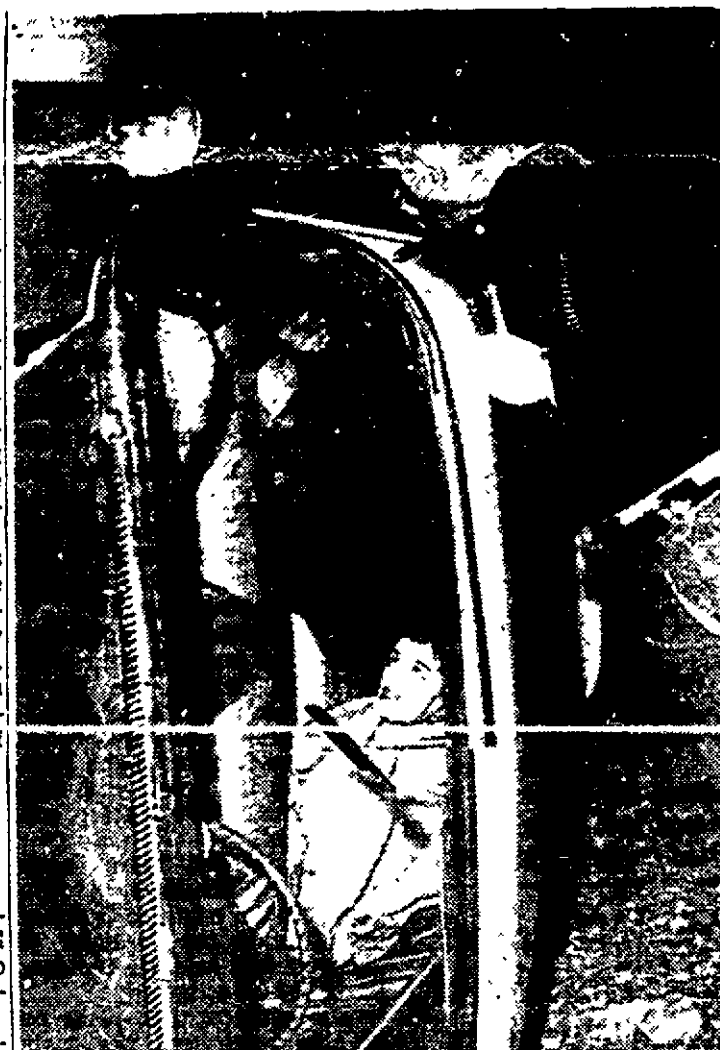

Prestige Not at Stake
As he did at his news conference a week ago, Eisenhower indicated he does not feel that America's international prestige is at stake in its space achievements by comparison with those of the Soviet Union.

The president was told today that George V. Allen, chief of the U. S. Information agency, had said in the last few days that U. S. prestige is at stake.

In response, Eisenhower recalled his December tour of 11 nations, and added in substance that on the journey he saw no indication this country's prestige is suffering.

As for space achievements, Eisenhower said once more that developments in that field are mostly in the scientific area.

He noted that earlier this week he asked congress for an additional $100 million for the space program. He said that implies U. S. determination to move ahead in that area, particularly in development of super booster rockets.

Principal Kills 2 Teachers and Self

hid every shotgun shell in the house. Then she sat up all Monday night, watching her husband in his fitful sleep.

"He was desperate," she explained. "He thought he had passed the point of usefulness."

Yesterday morning he arose and watched his wife drive off to consult the family doctor. He then bought some more shells for his 12-gauge shotgun, tidied up his desk and drove to the school.

Rapidly he strode into the first floor classroom of Miss Robson. The 21 children stared at the sight of the shotgun.

"They aren't going to hang me," the principal shouted.

He fired a single shot, killing Miss Robson outright with a blast in the chest.

"All the kids thought it was a joke until we saw the blood," said Richard Monroe, 11. "Miss Robson was very nice to us. She didn't give us much homework."

Some of the pupils screamed. Others were too shocked to make a sound.

Waving the frantic youngsters back into the classroom with his gun, Redden climbed a concrete ramp to Mrs. McFerrer's classroom.

"Don't shoot me," she pleaded.

Redden killed her with a shot in the face. Blood splattered all over a piano and on textbooks lying on nearby desks.

A janitor ran up, saw the principal with the gun and threw a crowbar at him. It missed, and Redden made for the door. En route he pointed the shotgun at a male teacher and another janitor, but he drove off without firing another shot.

Word of the schoolhouse killings spread quickly among the town's 7,250 residents.

Found in Thicket
Parents dragged children indoors as all schools were dismissed. Police mounted guard over teachers, at the school, at Redden's home, the doctor's office, road intersections — everywhere a crazed man with a loaded shotgun might take a notion to go.

About four hours later a farmer spotted the principal's car, mired down in a thicket seven miles southwest of town. Several schoolbooks lay in the rear seat. A few report cards were still neatly attached to a clipboard.

Shortly before dusk, police found Redden.

Redden, who had changed his conservative business suit for worn hunting clothes, lay as if asleep near a pile of felled trees. The shotgun was cradled in his arms, and three cigaret butts showed he had sat there for some time.

Jack Paar Better as Showman Than Expert on Cuban Affairs

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — I have acquired the habit of turning to Jack Paar as I understand to go to bed, he providing a fairly vaudeville show at that hour. Usually his program is not disturbing and thus suitable for one who expects to read for an hour and who eschews sleeping pills as unnecessary.

So I heard Jack Paar attempt to go political. He spoke on Cuba and while he has learned how to look almost sincerely childlike, I found it difficult to discover what point he was trying to make, except that he likes to go to Cuba and that the Cubans like him and that for that reason he is an expert on Cuban affairs and that Fidel Castro is a wonderful man, which did not seem logical. It is bad thinking. I love to be in Peking and have had many friends there; nevertheless Mao Tze-Tung is an evil tyrant. He is an enemy of the United States and his early assassination would disturb me hardly at all.

A man in Jack Paar's audience heckled him. Jack Paar's punch-line question was quite stupid. It was the old gag, "Vass you there, Charley?" which proves nothing. The greatest astronomer that ever lived has never been on the moon or on Saturn or Neptune. Thousands of tourists go to Cuba who cannot speak a word of Caribbean Spanish. I do not know whether Jack Paar can. Those who cannot speak the language of a people can have no direct contact with the masses of a country.

Says Reports Untrue
My colleague, Jack O'Brian, who reports on television, quotes Jack Paar as saying: "I've read such untruthful things about what was happening in Cuba. Now things have gotten so difficult now it's hard to get yourself involved with your heart because you get hit for it, but up until about a month ago, the things that were being written about Cuba for the most part from my experience weren't true—simply weren't true."

No political reporter would dare to make such a broad statement. Specifically what was untrue? Is it untrue that Raul Castro is a communist? Is it untrue that Fidel Castro has conducted a blood bath on his rise to power? Is it untrue that Castro has confiscated the property of American citizens and imperilled their lives? Is it untrue that Castro's "humanism" doctrine is an adaptation of Marxism to the first stage of a communist revolution? Is it untrue that Castro has whipped up the antagonism of Cuban masses to the United States?

Castro's Promises
If Jack Paar can say that the questions I ask are untrue, I am prepared to give him chapter and verse on his own program, on condition that I am not interrupted either by his pianist or by his peddling of wares.

Further Paar said: "...this man Castro is beloved by these people and here is a history of four or five hundred years of poor little people with their kids living in dirt and now this man promises them something else... we were needing that guy from the very beginning and I really thought it was unfair."

beginning and I really thought it was unfair." Lenin, Trotsky, Bukharin, Kollontai and all kinds of people in 1917 were promising the Russians "liberty, land and bread." Now 42 years have passed. Do the Russian people have liberty? I resented, as a listener, was Did the Russian peasant get his land? What have Castro's promises to do with reality? It would seem to me that

Mean Thief Steals From Paralyzed Boy
Laramie, Wyo. — Folks around Laramie have their own idea as to who is the world's meanest man. A 15-year-old boy who had polio when he was 8 and spent much of the last seven years in hospitals for surgery and treatment went on his first outing and hunting trip with his father. His paralysis allowed him use of only one arm, but he got his limit of three birds and put them in the family car. Another hunter promptly stole them.

A play breathtaking in its beauty with a most distinguished cast

Christopher Robin Now 39, Bookstore Owner

C. R. Milne of Dartmouth Finds 'Pooh' Stories Embarrassing

BY CARL HARTMAN

Dartmouth, England — If Christopher Robin is still saying his prayers these days, one of them may be that he could turn into somebody else. Being Christopher Robin is downright embarrassing.

Christopher Robin, you may remember, was the little boy in the poems and stories of the late A. A. Milne, notably "Winnie-the-Pooh."

"Christopher Robin — C. R. Milne, 39 — is now the proprietor of a book store and gift gallery in Dartmouth.

Dartmouth, site of an old castle and the Royal Navy college, attracts thousands of tourists and many bring little Colin or Marcia to shake hands with the original Christopher Robin.

"It gets to be rather a nuisance," he admits.

A slight, young-looking man with sandy hair and heavy-rimmed glasses, Christopher Robin now looks more like an intellectual British university student. As a small boy at school he suffered a good deal of ragging and curiosity when his father's books became popular.

The interest in Christopher Robin himself has lessened some in recent years, but not the interest in the books about him. "Winnie-the-Pooh" has been published in 20 languages.

This popularity extends to both sides of the Iron Curtain. Warsaw has named a street after Winnie. In Budapest, where he is known as Mici-Macko, his adventures have been dramatized and produced by a state-owned theater.

Christopher Robin himself went on to school and Cambridge university, where his studies were interrupted by

World war II.

He served as a lieutenant in the British army, and saw active service in Iraq, South Africa and Italy. Afterwards, he went back to Cambridge, shifting his attention from mathematics to English.

In 1948 he married and three years later settled in Dartmouth. He lives in a house outside the town. Three years ago his only child, Calre, was born.

Christopher Robin admits, with an embarrassed laugh, that he tells her stories. But not about Winnie.

"She's not old enough to be interested," he says, "but I suppose she'll come to it."

He admits to no literary ambitions himself. Asked about his interests, he replied shortly:

"Selling books."

Christopher Robin takes no responsibility at all for his father's work.

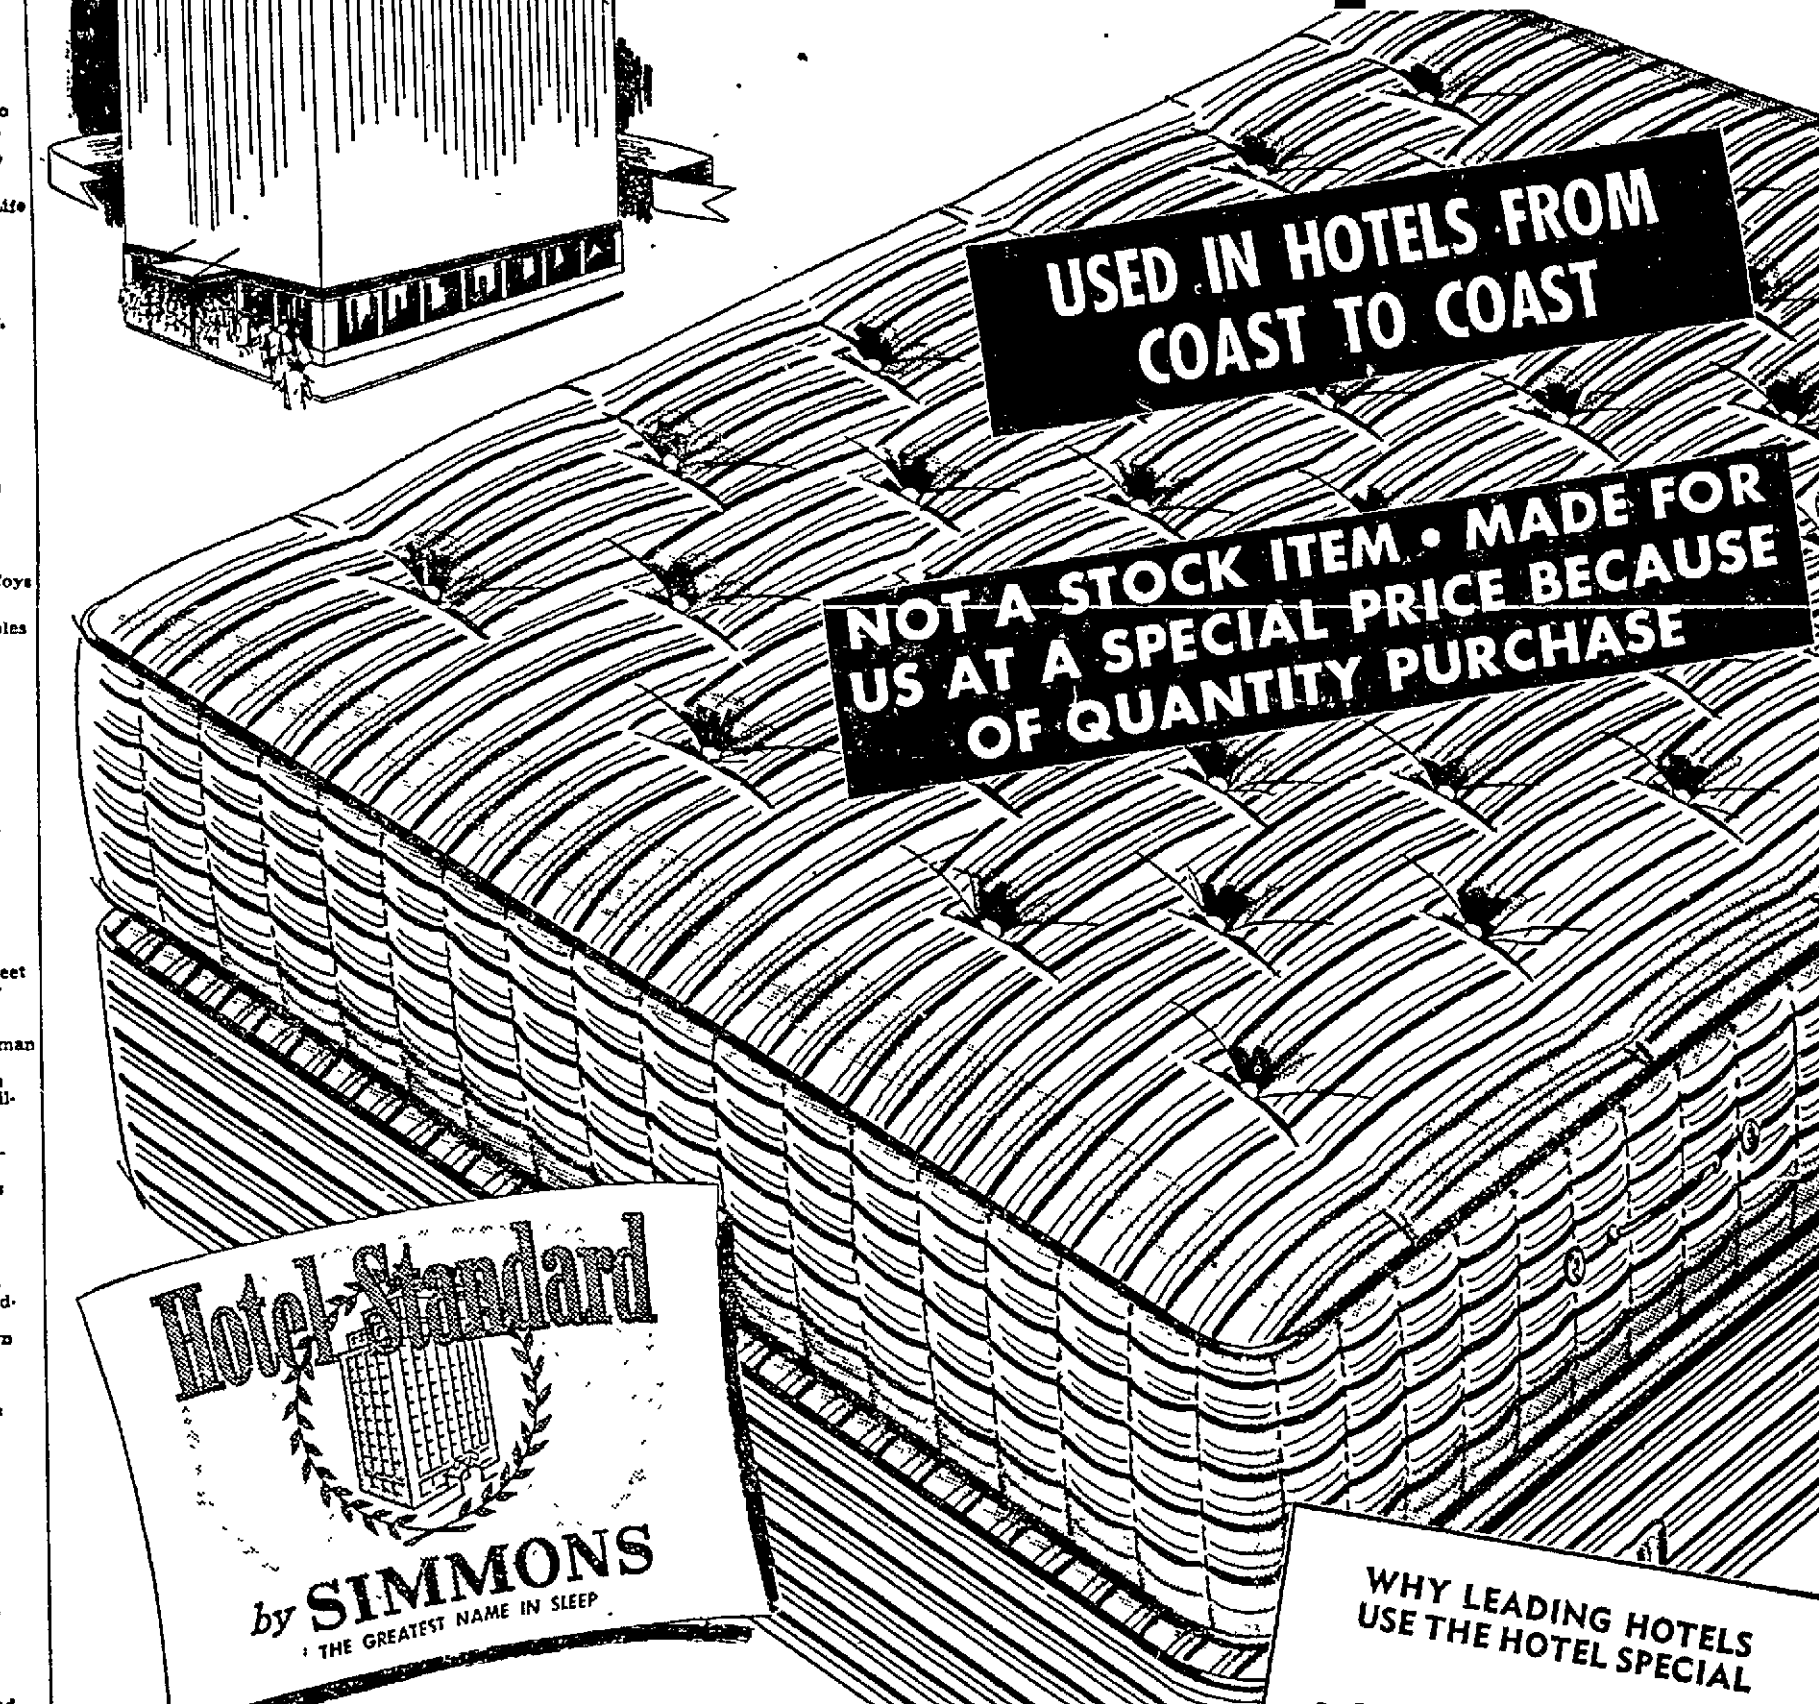

"I remember his reading the stories to me," he says, "but he wouldn't have changed anything if I'd made any objections."

Nor does he like to express any opinion about them, excusing himself on the ground that it's hard to be objective about things he knows so well.

He stocks the books on his children's shelves. If he didn't someone might ask why and that would bring up the whole subject.

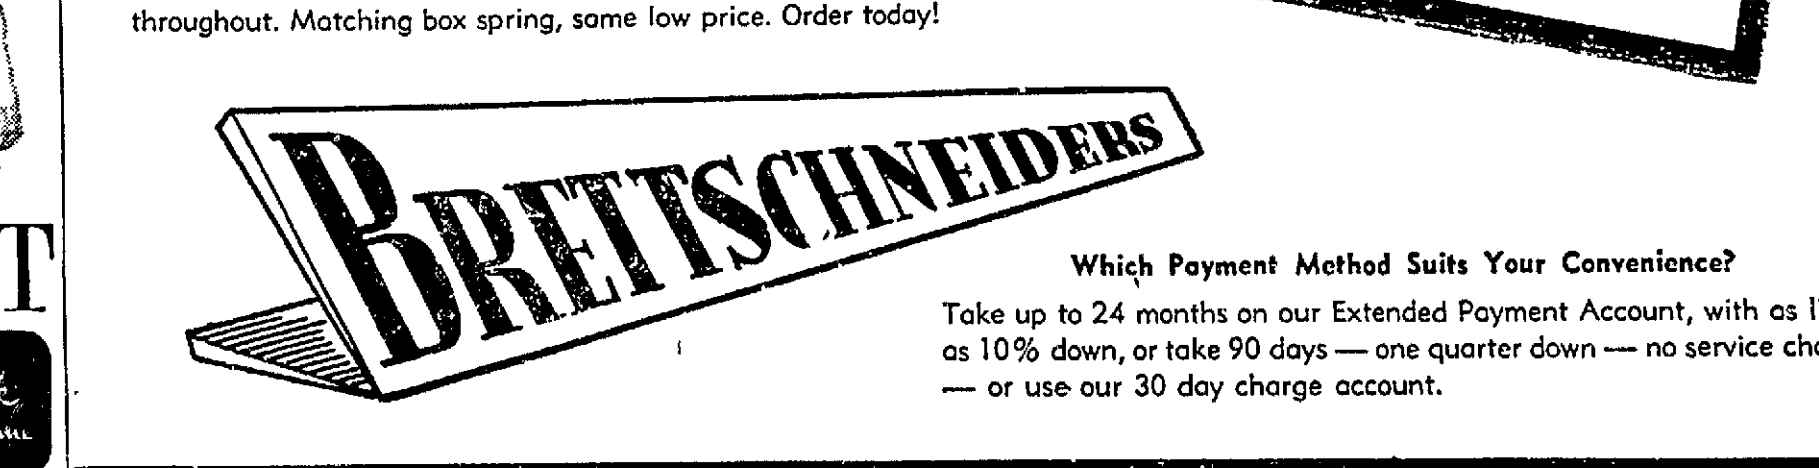

And he doesn't seem to care much for that at all.

Informal Coffee Hours Tell Peabody Manor Story

The story of Peabody Manor, the home for retired persons which will be managed by the Visiting Nurse association of Appleton, is being informally told this week at a series of 42 morning coffee hours.

A member of Peabody Manor's speakers' bureau is attending each event to inform guests of the proposed building. The coffee hours began Tuesday in 15 homes and will continue today, Thursday and Friday.

The gatherings are neighborhood events and the committee chairmen selected the homes and hostesses strategically throughout Appleton. In charge of choosing homes were Mmes. Harold Adams, Earl Miller, Edward Zeiss, Carl Schroeder and F. T. Eustice.

After a short visit over coffee and coffee cake, the neighbors listened as the proposed home was described. An architect's sketch of the building which will be located in the block between W. Fifth and Sixth streets from Locust street almost to Memorial drive, was shown and guests were enthusiastic about it.

The home is being designed with everybody in mind and will house 16 bed patients as well as ambulatory people. Garden plots, sunrooms, patios and social rooms will be included to make life interesting for the manor's residents.

In addition to the residence for elderly people, Peabody Manor will be headquarters for the Visiting Nurse association, which will be located in a wing of the building.

Original funds for the project came from the estate of the late George F. Peabody and a fund drive for approximately $500,000 is being launched to raise the additional funds to break ground in June.

A Large Sketch of Peabody Manor was shown by Mrs. Paul Truttschel, left, who spoke at the coffee held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Eich, right, 1324 S. Alicia drive. With them is Mrs. Harold Brown.

Brochures Published for Peabody Manor's fund drive now underway were distributed by Mrs. Dan A. Hardt, left, who spoke to a group Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. James B. McKenny, 1625 S. Carver lane. At the right is a neighbor, Mrs. William H. Hale.

After a Short Visit over coffee and morning snacks, the groups listened attentively as the story of Peabody Manor was told. Pouring coffee for this group is Mrs. John B. Menn, left, while her guests are Mrs.

Chandler W. Rowe, the speaker, Mrs. A. C. McIntyre and Mrs. W. Theodore Bernhardt. Mrs. Menn entertained at her home, 1420 Riverview lane.

Mrs. Alfred S. Bradford, left 312 W. Prospect avenue, greets Mrs. Karl Schuetter, Mrs. Kenneth E. Kloehn and Miss Lynda Hollenbeck for the coffee gathering at her home Tuesday morning. Mrs. Kloehn was the speaker who told the group of neighbors about Peabody Manor, the proposed home for the retired which will be managed by the Visiting Nurse association of Appleton.

Brother-in-Law's One Track Mind, Talk Irritate Woman

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a sister of whom I'm very fond. I seldom go to visit her because her husband talks constantly on one subject — sex. I'm a married woman and no prude. I can take a spicy story now and then, but my brother-in-law manages to steer every conversation back to his favorite topic. If someone brings up politics he always has the inside scoop on the back-street affairs of the candidates. He doesn't know anything about issues, just who is running around.

If someone mentions elephants he is already an authority on the sex life of the pachyderms. He puts a double meaning on every sentence. His one-track mind irritates me beyond description. I would love to shut him up once and for all. How can I do it? — Evalynn

Dear Evalynn: You'll never shut him up—he's too far gone. Understanding his problem (and he has a problem, I assure you) may help to reduce the irritation.

Just remember that these unfortunates who always manage to get the needle stuck in this groove are sick sick sick.

DEAR ANN: A good friend I shall call John was engaged to marry a lovely girl. They went together over a year. The girl's family is well-to-do and made plans for an elaborate wedding and reception. Three days before the wedding the girl's father phoned John to tell him the wedding was off and they were taking her away for a month. The only reason given was that Pamela was terribly tired and she couldn't go through with it. John's mother had the unpleasant task of phoning her friends and relatives to tell them the wedding was off.

In three weeks they returned. Pamela called John and greeted him in a cheery voice as if nothing had happened.

She said she was sorry she had behaved badly and wanted to set another date. He said he'd think about it. I've been asked for an opinion. What would you say?—Friend

Dear Friend: This decision is not one for you to make or for me, either. It's up to John to decide if he wants to risk marriage with a girl who has demonstrated enormous instability.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 15 who is running out of friends. The reason is my mother. Whenever I have girls over my mother acts as if they are her children to boss around. She tells them to hang up their coats, quit slumping in the chair, keep their hands off the knick knacks and so on. The other day she told my best girl friend that her hair looked terrible and that she should have it cut. I just know that girl will never come over here again as long as she lives.

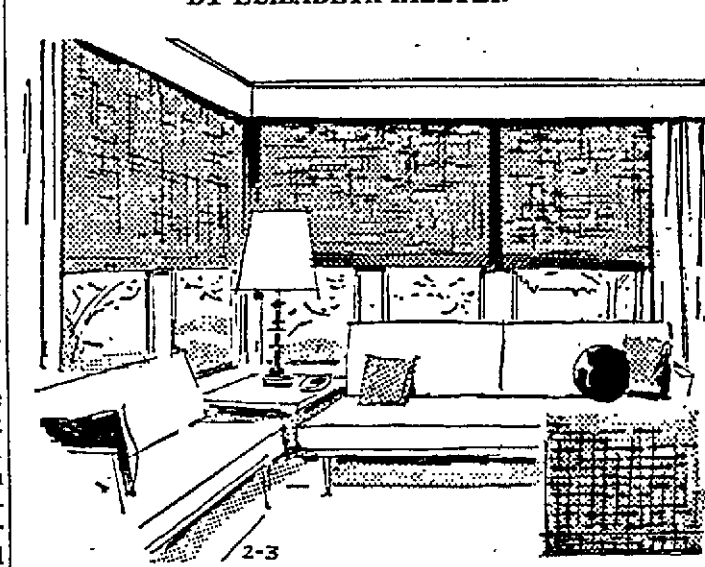

Please tell me what to do.—Strawboss' Daughter

Dear Daughter: This is a toughie because your mother means well. She doesn't realize that strangers are more sensitive to her criticism than her own children. Ask Mom in a nice way if she'll take it easy on your friends.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1959)

Twice-Handsome Effect With Half as Many Shades

Narrow windows and too many of them can be made to look twice as wide and half as numerous with shades that spread wide across more than one. Here's the example of the smoothing three shades can do to a choppy six window line-up, and it could be just the problem solver for Mrs. J. R. C. "Draw draperies are fine at night for my old-fashioned window wall corner," she writes, "but the changing light through so much glass needs more than open or closed regulation in the daytime. What can do it as well as window shades? But I don't like the effect of six shades with wide strips of out-dated wood-work between them."

First divide the number of shades by two. Mrs. C., to step up the window appearance without losing window shade performance. Then make the shades one of the new especially decorative kinds. The shades sketched are very new and different in loosely woven flax which looks hand crafted, although it's firmly with vinyl, and the colors are smartly geranium, lime, leaf, indigo and the natural warm beige of the flax.

Mrs. C. R. "Will you suggest ways to give my kitchen a new look? It's long and narrow, 6' x 14', and has windows two feet from the floor and one foot from the ceiling that completely cover two walls. I'd like a change from the cafe curtains I have but blinds or shades are out because the window frames aren't in good condition. I have thought of new criss-cross tie-back curtains. Vinyl blocks on the floor alternate two shades of light green. The baseboards, door frames, table, two chairs and

Kind Help Could be Criticized

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much like to have your opinion on the following situation: A young man I know is invited to an evening of cards at my house, three other couples also are invited. When they leave, is it wrong for my friend to stay on awhile to help me straighten the house, or must he leave when the others do?

Answer: If you are a young woman and you will be entirely alone with the young man, I'm afraid you will be inviting criticism if you have him stay on after the others leave.

Not Wrong Dear Mrs. Post: It has always struck me as being in very poor taste for members of the deceased family to say "Thank you for coming" to those who call at the funeral home to pay their respects. I feel they do this out of friendship and love and that thanks are out of order on this occasion. Later of course thank-you notes are written to all those who sent flowers, mass cards, donations, etc. I would very much like to know what you think about this.

Answer: I am sorry but I cannot agree with you. It is not wrong to express one's thanks to anyone who has taken the trouble to come to the funeral home to pay his (or her) respects to the deceased.

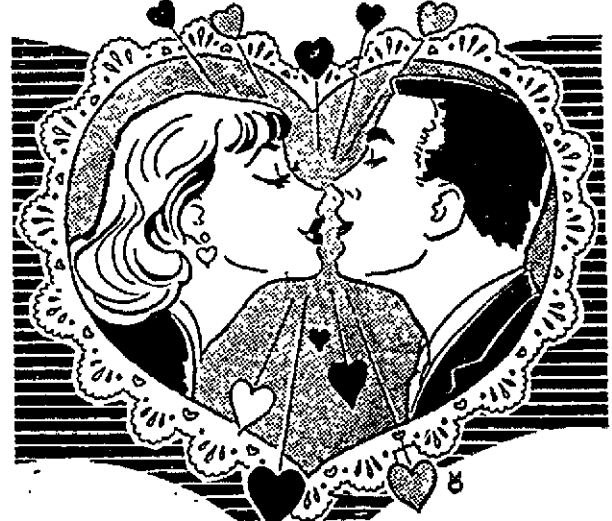

Perfectly Proper Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper for a woman to accept an invitation to a wedding if her husband cannot go with her? A friend of mine went to a wedding recently in a distant city alone as her husband could not go with her. She is being severely criticized for this. I would very much like to know if there is just grounds for this criticism.

Answer: If her husband did not object to her going to this other city alone, there can be no reason for anyone else to criticize her.

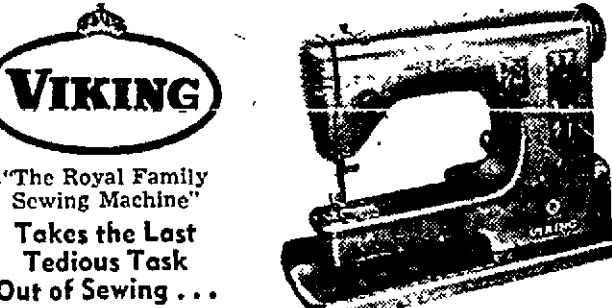

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her booklet No. 503, entitled, "Etiquette of Service," send 25 cents in coin to Dept. E.P. care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

This Heroic Man Should Get Medal

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

U. S. Masters Team Champion This is a topsy-turvy world. They hand you a cup for winning a bridge tournament, but you don't get even an honorable mention for feats that are far more difficult. Take this one, for example:

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH S-K 7 2 H-J 8 4 3 D-8 C-K Q 5 3 2

WEST EAST S-A Q 10 9 8 5 S-6 3 H-K H-Q 7 5 D-A Q 4 D-J 10 9 8 7 C-7 6 4 5 2

SOUTH C-10 S-J 4 H-A 10 9 6 2 D-K 3 C-A J 9 8

South West North East 1 H 1 S 4 H All pass Opening lead—C-4

West was an expert, and East was his ever-loving wife. North and South were good players, but they don't play a big part in this little story of unrewarded heroism.

West thought carefully before choosing his opening lead. He came up with the killing lead—a club.

Now South was sure to be defeated. The defenders would get their two aces, the queen of trumps, and a club ruff.

Tragic Cover Declarer won the first club in dummy with the queen, led the jack of hearts. The ever-loving lady in the East seat remembered that somebody had once told her to cover an honor with an honor. So she covered the jack of hearts with the queen.

If you have tears, prepare to shed them now. South won with the ace of hearts, and West had to drop the king. South then drew two more rounds of trumps and easily made his contract with an overtrick.

While all this was going on, West kept his calm and pleasant demeanor. Witnesses tell me that he didn't even twitch. At the end of the hand West

Our Children

I.Q. Rating Only Hint Of Potential Ability

BY ANGELO PATRI

Long ago we decided that the intelligence quotient test was no more than a hint of what the child was like in mental development and potential ability. Michael decided us, made us firm in our contention that while the mark might shed some light on the child's ability it was not decisive.

Michael was an underprivileged child if ever there was one. He came from a poverty-stricken home, poor in all that goes to make a good home for a child. He was poorly fed and poorly dressed. His mind worked slowly, so slowly that we had to tutor him through every grade. He would pass by a close margin.

He never spoke of his future plans, and we supposed he had none until, when it was time for this graduation the guidance teacher asked him what he intended to do. "Enter West Point," said Michael.

Marks Too Low
The teacher gasped. "But Michael, your marks won't allow you to enter there. Your math is so poor, your English, you just get by." "I'm going to West Point," said Michael. The high school admitted him.

him grudgingly and Michael continued to squeeze by, occasionally being tutored by some patient, helpful teacher, and in time he was graduated.

Of course West Point did not admit him.

Started To Study
Now Michael got some sample examinations, some text books, and studied hard.

His old school friends gave him a lesson every now and then, but he worked for the greater part of the time by himself, meanwhile earning his living in a machine shop as a helper.

He took the state regents examinations and raised his marks to the top and West Point admitted him. He did well there.

When Michael was tested in the seventh year of the elementary school his I.Q. was 93. By the time he entered West Point it was a 120.

There is more to a person's being than his I.Q. may show. The qualities of mind, of character, of potentialities, are hidden. Experience will develop some, good food, good living conditions, help, the will, the purpose, the strength of spirit will do the rest.

"... Two young men recently proposed to me. I would like to have your opinion on which one you think I'm better suited for."

First, let's talk about you. You are calm and collected with a well controlled disposition and a likable personality but I doubt that you are really in love with either of these boys. In fact, you are not able to judge your feelings accurately because you want to please everybody.

Beneath this affability you have a much stronger will than is realized by your friends. You have a good sense of humor and you detest unpleasantness.

To get your own way without conflict you are likely to use placid resistance, always saying "perhaps" instead of "no." Both of these boys may think they are engaged to you!

Boy No. 1 has much charm. His words dwindle in height indicating diplomacy and tact. He's unpredictable,

PIN-WORMS
MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... tiny parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermicide... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

How to Slim the Face
A round, fleshy face is not the beauty disaster most possessors make of it. When the figure is as round as the face, a reducing diet takes care of both problems.
Otherwise, contours can be trimmed to a satisfying degree by exercise and massage. Via a clever make-up and hair style, they appear to vanish altogether. The ways and means follow.
As an exercise, throw your head back and repeatedly try to touch the lower lip to the nose. Perform ten minutes daily, always working for an increased pull in the muscles.
For a good massage, "spank" your face with the fingertips of both hands, moving upwards from the underside of the chin. Continue for ten minutes.
These are the make-up devices to use: Smooth on your accustomed powder base as usual; then mold your jaw with a darker shade of base. Next wing your cheekbones with a pale rouge, and powder over all. Lastly apply your lipstick and brush your brows in the flattest possible line.
The hair style for you hugs the temples, fluffs up over the brow, and swirls across the back of the head.
How to give the illusion of perfection to imperfect features is detailed in my leaflet, "Make-Up Make-Believe." To obtain a copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin. (Copyright, 1960)

5 Bags of Cats-Eyes Go to Valentine Contest Winner

BY GAPPY DICK

Five bags of cat's-eye marbles, each containing 19 beautiful, shiny marbles, will be awarded to each boy or girl who sends in a winning entry for today's puzzle contest.

This prize was offered for the first time one week ago today. It is being repeated because the marble season will soon be here and many boys and girls need new supplies. This is a chance to win a bagful.

The puzzle to be solved appears in the adjoining picture which requires you to figure out the 5-letter name of a romantic character who has a lot to do with Valentine's day. You can discover the name by supplying letters to fill the blanks in the word square.

The letter for the top square will complete a 3-letter word which is something in which you ride. The second letter will complete a 3-letter word meaning what Cappy Dick prize contests are.

The third word will be a nickname for father when you supply the correct missing letter and the fourth word is something to be eaten. The on correct letter in the bottom letter word meaning what of part of a room. All the missing letters together will spell the puzzle solution.

When you have figured out the puzzle and printed the missing letters in the proper blanks, clip out the picture and paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Beneath it print your name, age and address. Then use your paints, crayons or pencil to decorate the entry in any way you consider neat and attractive.

Address your contest entry to Cappy Dick at the Appleton Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight Friday. (Copyright, 1960)

After Returning to Appleton High school from a year's stay at Riverview sanatorium, Sue Christen, left, looks over the story about her that Sharon Arts, left, wrote in the school newspaper, the Talisman. Tuberculin skin tests that helped Sue detect her disease before its symptoms were visible are given free of cost at the high school.

Girl Returns to AHS After TB Recovery

BY SHARON ARTS

"I never dreamed it could happen to me; even now, after almost a year, it seems like an unbelievable dream." These are the words of Sue Christen, a junior at Appleton High school who had the misfortune to contract the tuberculosis germ. Sue now has one week to remain at Riverview sanatorium, near Kaukauna, which has become her "home," since the second semester of her sophomore year.

This article appeared in the Talisman, Appleton High school weekly newspaper Jan. 19. Sue returned to school this week.

An ordinary girl full of pep, fun, vitality, complete with a sweet personality, laughing and chatting with numerous friends, Sue never showed any of the symptoms associated with tuberculosis. She enjoyed life and the usual little occurrences which occupy an average teenager.

Then, one day in the eighth grade, a simple skin test brought about a new life for Sue. Sue's reaction to the skin test proved positive, which meant that she had come in contact with the tuberculosis germ and would require further examination. Yearly X-rays at Riverview under the supervision of Dr. John Russo, chief-of-staff, revealed no sign of infection until Sue's sophomore year. The X-ray showed a cavity and lesions, which Sue terms "peppershots". Sue's reaction to the report was one of incredulity. "I simply couldn't believe my ears. I felt swell; I never had any symptoms of any kind." Continuing with School Work Preparing for her "visit" Sue realized how much she would miss certain things that had become such a common part of life, her family, friends, sports, extra-curricular activities, and even schoolwork. Sue jokingly states, "Of all the things I was left out of, schoolwork wasn't one. I soon found out. Seriously though, I'm very grateful to the teachers and Miss Annabelle Wolf for everything they have done. Without their help, I would have to take my junior year over."

Quiet, drab and dull are adjectives that fit Sue's first impression of the sanatorium, but the warmth of the music and other patients soon penetrated through that first impression.

An average day includes five hours of rest, five and one-half hours up and around and lights out at 9:30 until rise and shine time at 7 a.m., when the nurse comes in with 25 pills that must be taken in one 24 hour span. Meals are served in bed until two to three months before a patient is ready to go home. There is no special diet — just a lot of everything.

On Sunday, church services are held in the building and Sue must rise at 5 a.m. Sue says, "Sometimes on cold mornings it was tempting to change religions 'cause the other services weren't until 8 a.m."

Many Recreational Activities Entertainments and recreational activities also become important in a patient's day. Movies are shown every two weeks, and different groups from the outside come to entertain the "recuperants." In the summer there are picnics once a week and outdoor barbecues. In the recreation room there is a television and a large selection of books to choose from. The sanatorium features an occu-

Meeting on Dog Situation Proves Inconclusive

A meeting between the city council's dog control committee and Outagamie County Humane society leaders has proved inconclusive.

Humane society leaders agreed to furnish statistics that can be compared with dog officer's reports of the past and the committee agreed to mull over possible rules it will set down if the society is to assume dog-catcher duties permanently.

Another meeting will be held, probably the third week of this month, Chairman Ald. Kenneth Priebe said.

The humane society last Oct. 1 became the city's dog officer on a trial basis. The trial originally was for 90 days, but was extended to March 1.

Some aldermen, notably Ald. Austin N. Tucker, believe the city should turn over its police duties in dog control to the society. They think it will save the city money. Dogcatcher Walter Weber resigned shortly before the October trial started.

Committee Asking Revision of City's Walk Repair Policy

Revision of the city's sidewalk repair program is sought by the council's street and sanitation committee.

Committeemen have voted to ask the board of public works to consider a 2-year guarantee on all newly-constructed walks, instead of five years, and to assess an extra 1.25 cents per square foot on all walks installed by the city contractor.

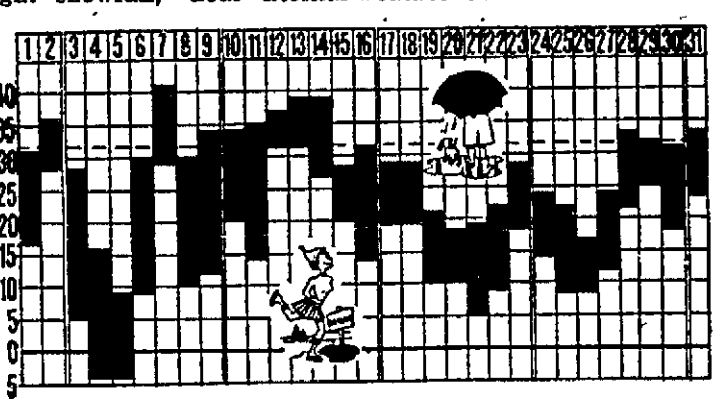

The extra assessment, proposed originally by Ald. Poirer, street chairman, would be used to defray the cost of repairing walks which are defective through no fault of the contractor or the materials he used.

Burglary Try Futile

Tulsa, Okla. — Thieves entered the offices of a cemetery after prying open a heavy door. They battered a safe, finally knocking off the knob and handle; tried to peel the steel front off the safe, then left empty handed. The office manager said the only thing in the safe was a record of people buried in the cemetery.

January Highlighted by Mild Weather, Lack of Heavy Snow

January was mild. The month was highlighted by reflected the unusually cold light snowfall, near normal weather at that time. But a snow cover, no winds more than 26 miles an hour and no blizzards.

One thing did upset the month, however. There were clouds in the sky more than half the time. Precipitation was almost normal, or the average of the last 60 years. But 70 per cent of the precipitation was in the form of rain on the 11th and 12th.

Snowfall was fourth lightest for January since 1926, when less than five inches of snow fell. The least snow recorded was two inches in January, 1928. The January total this year was 4.2 inches.

Daily high and low temperatures reveal only one significant arctic surge for the entire month. This included the only sub-zero recording on two days. This was in sharp contrast to zero or below on 17 days in January a year ago. In still greater contrast was the 5.2 degree above normal monthly mean temperature for the month this year when compared with the 6.2 degree below normal of a year ago, or a spread of 11.4 degrees.

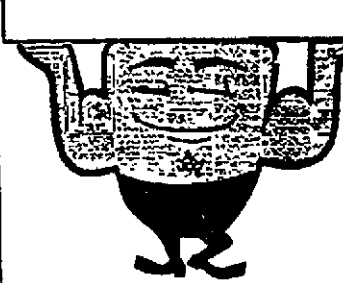

Heating degree days below a 65 degree base totaled only 1,327 for the month this year. The normal for January is 1,474.

UW Medical School Seeks More Students

Dean Wants Liberal Admissions Policy To Attract Quality

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The University of Wisconsin Medical school, which has sometimes in the past been criticized for admitting too few candidates, is looking for some more high quality applicants.

The annual report of Dean John Z. Bowers notes that freshman enrollment in the school has significantly increased in recent years, and that the school would welcome more applicants if they are of the desired quality.

Cause For Concern — "The quality of applicants for medical schools is a cause for concern," he observed. "There is extremely keen competition for the good medical student. Recent studies indicate that medical schools with a restrictive enrollment policy do not attract students of as high a caliber as those schools with a less restrictive policy."

Several years ago, when the school was under pressure in the legislature and elsewhere for production of more physicians, its officers pledged that they would increase the size of the school's freshman class gradually to 100, with the expansion of clinical and other facilities.

Dr. Bowers reported that he admitted 93 students last year, 90 of them Wisconsin residents. He said he hopes to be able to liberalize the rules on the admission of non-resident students.

The ratio of physicians to population is lower in Wisconsin than in the country as a whole, by a substantial margin.

But Dr. Bowers noted that increasing the size of the medical school and its graduating classes won't assure a larger number of practicing physicians here. Graduate doctors migrate, he said, explaining that there are more university medical alumni in California today than in any other state except Wisconsin.

Highway Sign Charges Up

New Markers are Costly, Department Explains in Report

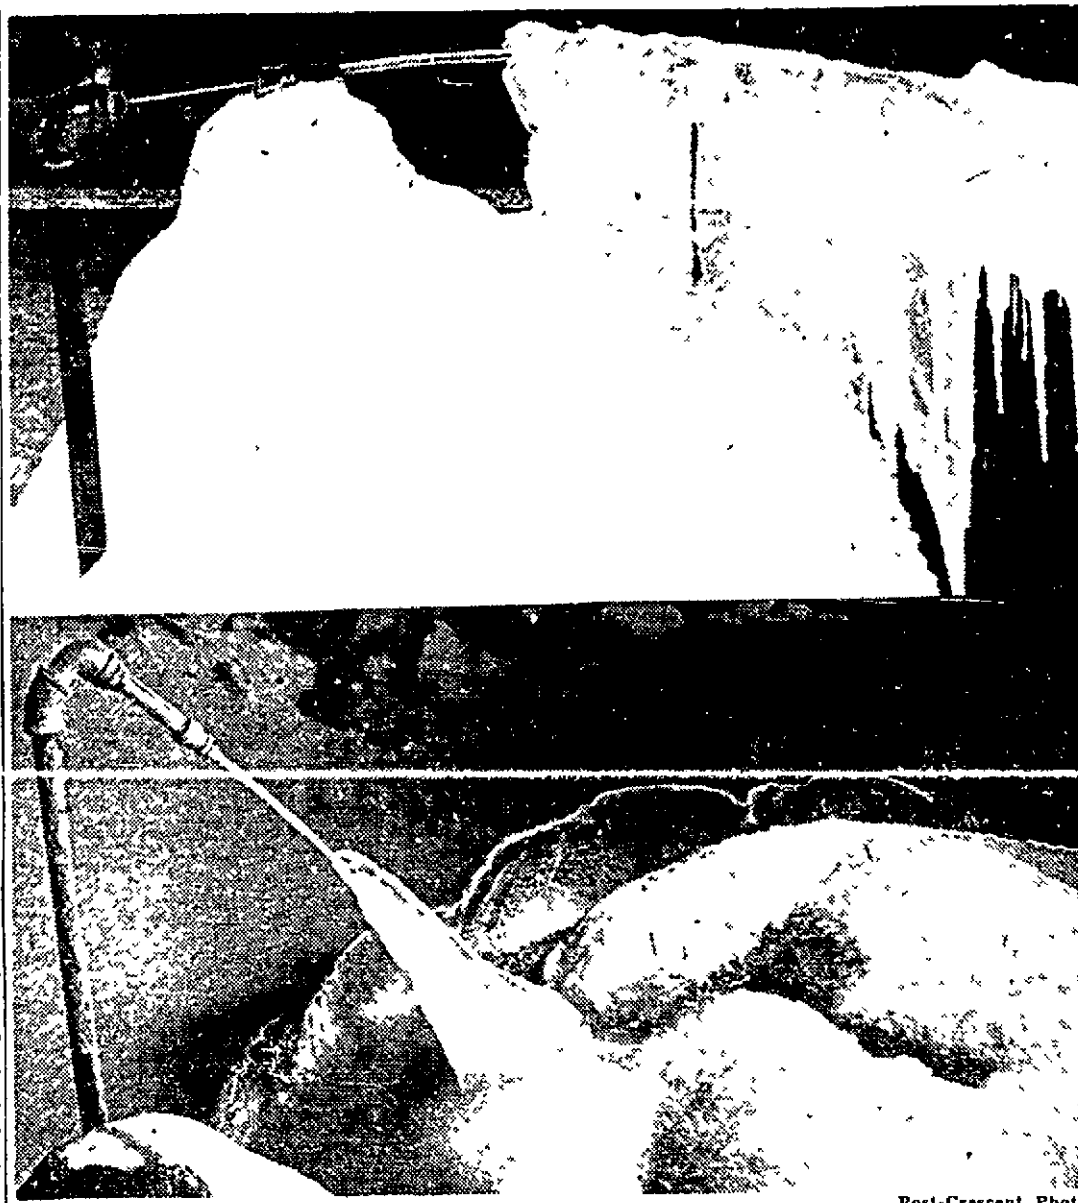

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Highway marking and sign expenditures represent an increasing ratio of highway budgeting costs under changing conditions, the state highway department explains in its annual report.

The department illustrates with the big 125 square feet signs used as major traffic guides on the new "Interstate" highway system.

Each of those new signs, with their supports and footings, costs about $920, it was reported.

The state highway department's shop turned out about

This Winter, With Its lack of prolonged cold spells, has had a different effect than most winters on an artesian well near the Pine river at Poy Sippi. The top picture, taken during a "normal" winter, shows how the water shooting from the pipe froze before it fell, forming icicles which appear to be suspended in the air. This year, however, warmer weather and thaws have prevented the water from forming more than the stalagmite formation in the lower photo.

30,000 traffic signs of all kinds last year, at an average cost of $8 each. A typical sign two feet square costs just over $10. The department is now responsible for about 60,000 signs on the state trunk highway system, or about six to the mile.

Private Landholders Dominate Reforestation

Mechanical Planter, Tax Laws, Fire Safety Encourage Planting

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Reforestation was once a publicly-financed program in Wisconsin, but eager private landholders now are dominating the effort.

The story is told in the statistics related by the state conservation department, which helpfully provides more planting stock each year to the enthusiastic private foresters and forest landowners of Wisconsin.

Land Remains — Reforestation achievement in the state is now pushing toward 50,000 planted acres a year, of which about four fifths is accounted for by private owners. Many of these are farmers restocking their marginal lands, but many are city residents who have responded to the appeal of buying up inexpensive land and planting it for future forest crops.

Reforestation achievement in the state is now pushing toward 50,000 planted acres a year, of which about four fifths is accounted for by private owners. Many of these are farmers restocking their marginal lands, but many are city residents who have responded to the appeal of buying up inexpensive land and planting it for future forest crops.

There has been tree planting in this state for more than three quarters of a century, but during the first part of the reforestation story the effort was mostly that of public agencies.

The big upsurge of private activity followed World War II, and more particularly, the invention of a workable mechanical planter which replaced the slow, expensive and laborious hand planting on the barren acres of central and upper Wisconsin.

Federal aid programs of recent years have provided some incentive for tree plantings, but the private interest trend was evident even before they began, the state foresters report. In recent times the demand for planting stock has exceeded the capacity of the state nurseries, in spite of a huge expansion of their productive capacity.

About three quarters of a million acres of the state have thus far been reforested by man-made programs. The total is significant, but there remains enough plantable land not otherwise used or likely to be used to maintain the present reforestation pace for another half century, according to some experts in the field.

Other factors besides the mechanical planter that have encouraged private enterprise in forest plantings are the forest crop laws that assure a stable tax liability on such holdings, and a gradually more effective forest fire protection program that reduces the chances of catastrophic loss through fire.

Court Upholds Tower Lease

Madison — The validity of a 1957 lease which allowed a television firm to build a 648-foot tower atop Rib mountain near Wausau was upheld in a unanimous vote by the Wisconsin supreme court Monday.

The 15-year agreement between the Wisconsin Valley Television corporation of Wausau and two state agencies was challenged in a taxpayers suit by William T. Ewings, publisher of the Madison Capital Times. The tower was built in Rib mountain state park.

The high court, in a decision written by Chief Justice John E. Martin, held that benefits to the public outweighed any reduction of park use involved.

'Wega Church Plans to Buy More Land

Addition to School Project for Lutherans Of St. Peter Parish

Weyauwega — Members of St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church have authorized the purchase of the Frank Preuss property for school expansion purposes at a cost of $8,000.

The property with an 80-foot frontage on W. Main street extends to Lake Weyauwega and is immediately west of the church property.

Plans call for an activity room and three additional classrooms to be added to the present school building. Because of the large enrollment it was agreed to call another teacher for next year. This will bring the faculty to seven.

GALA FOODS

for gala occasions

Highlight your baked ham with "Peach Baskets"—canned clings zipped up with a dash of vinegar and filled with creamy pastel candy "eggs." Cream cheese seasoned with horse-radish fashions the candy eggs, and how good they are, both with peaches and ham! The fruit garnish makes the rich ham taste twice as good.

The peaches are easy to fix—unbelievably so! You just open a can of cling peach halves and add a couple of tablespoons of vinegar, and let the fruit chill in its tart syrup until serving time. For the eggs, add prepared horse-radish to taste, divide the mixture and tint delicately with food coloring. Chill the cheese and roll into balls, then elongate the balls, and you have your colored candy eggs!

For dessert, prepare a "Fruit Cocktail Cheese Cake." It's made with gelatin, so is a make-ahead dessert, perfect for the holidays. It's pretty as a Sunday bonnet, with the five colorful fruits of canned fruit cocktail scattered through the creamy cheese cake. Save out a half cup of the fruit to bedeck the top.

Peach Baskets

- 1 (No. 2½) can cling peach halves
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 2 (3-ounce) packages cream cheese
- 1 to 2 tablespoons prepared horse-radish
- Food coloring

Combine peaches with wine vinegar and chill for at least 4 hours before serving. Soften cream cheese and blend in horse-radish to taste. Divide into three portions and tint pink, light green and yellow. Shape into small balls, then roll between the palms to elongate into egg shape. Drain peaches thoroughly, and place three eggs in each. Arrange around baked ham. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Fruit Cocktail Cheese Cake

- 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
- ½ cup melted butter or margarine
- 1 (No. 2½) can fruit cocktail
- 2 envelopes plain gelatin
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 pint cottage cheese
- 1 cup whipping cream

Set aside two tablespoons graham cracker crumbs for top. Combine remaining crumbs with butter, mixing well. Press firmly in bottom and sides of 8-inch spring form. Chill. Drain fruit cocktail, reserving syrup. Soften gelatin in ½ cup of the syrup. Combine ¼ cup of the sugar with orange juice concentrate, salt and egg yolks, and beat until well blended. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in softened gelatin and heat, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Cool. Meanwhile, force cottage cheese through a sieve. When gelatin is cooled to room temperature, beat egg whites to fine foam stage, and gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar. With same beater, whip cream stiff. Stir cottage cheese into cooled gelatin mixture, then fold in egg whites and cream. Set aside ½ cup fruit cocktail for garnish, and fold remainder into cheese mixture. Turn into crumb-lined pan and chill until firm. Makes about 9 servings.

Make your "company" meals as delicious and attractive as you possibly can, to bring a festive note to every meal. Salads for the holidays can be as pretty as a picture, and they can taste even better than they look!

For a buffet party, arrange a "Fruit Platter" to which guests help themselves. On a large plate place golden canned cling peach halves, fresh or canned pears, crisp grapes, stuffed fresh dates, red-skinned apple wedges, in an attractive arrangement. Center it with a creamy bowl of dressing. Easy, and oh, so good!

For a luncheon party, make snowy "Frozen Fruit Salads" with cream cheese and whipped cream, orange juice and the gay and colorful fruits of canned fruit cocktail. A star cut from a thin slice of cranberry sauce adds a festive note on each of these salads. This makes an excellent luncheon entree, with steaming cups of soup for a first course, crisp rolls to nibble along with the salad, and perhaps a handsome cake for dessert.

Make "Poinsettia Salads" to accompany a rich casserole dinner. Canned cling peach slices are given a rosy tinge with cinnamon candies, and vinegar makes them a bit tart. Center drained slices with a fluff of cream cheese sprinkled with finely chopped green pepper. The combination tastes as good as it looks, too.

Fruit Platter

- Canned cling peach halves
- Fresh or canned pear halves
- Cheese stuffed fresh dates
- Red-skinned apple wedges
- Grape clusters
- Salad greens
- Creamy Dressing

CREAMY DRESSING

- ½ cup whipping cream
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ cup mayonnaise

Drain peaches thoroughly. Arrange all fruits on large serving platter. Garnish with salad greens. Serve with Creamy Dressing.

CREAMY DRESSING: Whip cream until thick. Add lemon juice and sugar and beat until stiff. Fold in mayonnaise. Makes about 1½ cups dressing.

Frozen Fruit Salad

- 2 (3-oz.) packages cream cheese
- ½ teaspoon grated orange rind
- ½ cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows (or cut marshmallows)
- 1½ cups drained canned fruit cocktail
- Jellied cranberry sauce

Soften cheese, and gradually blend in orange rind and juice and lemon juice. Whip cream until stiff and fold into cheese mixture. Fold in marshmallows and drained canned fruit cocktail. Turn into freezing tray and place in freezing compartment of refrigerator or freezer until firm. Remove from freezer and place on shelf of refrigerator for about 20 minutes before serving. Cut into slices and place on lettuce. Top each serving with a star cut from a slice of jellied cranberry sauce, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Poinsettia Salad

- 1 (No. 2½) can cling peach slices
- 1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies
- 1½ tablespoons vinegar
- 1 (3-oz.) package cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon light cream or milk
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- Chicory

Drain ¾ cup syrup from peaches into saucepan, add cinnamon candies and vinegar, and heat slowly, stirring occasionally, until candies dissolve. Remove from heat and add drained peach slices. Chill several hours or overnight in syrup. Soften cheese and blend in milk. On each salad plate place a mound of cheese in center and sprinkle with green pepper. Arrange drained peach slices, petal fashion, around cheese. Garnish with small sprigs of chicory. Makes 4 to 6 salads.

POST-CRESCENT News of the Twin Cities Neenah - Menasha

Flooded Each Winter by snow and rain and frozen into glassy perfection, several adjoining lots in the 700 block of Lincoln and Eighth streets in Menasha provide convenience to youngsters who almost can skate out their back doors. In upper photo, a skateless toddler's boots whizzed along the ice between two of her older friends. Below, Francis Morgan, who prefers sleds, slid over the ice ahead of Sharon Funk. Youngsters in the block also play hockey, using croquet mallets and blocks of ice for pucks or sometimes the normal equipment.

Man Dies of Gun Wound

Rural Neenah Farmer's Death Ruled Accidental

Oshkosh — John Sturm, 65, route 2, Neenah, was found dead of a shotgun wound in the lower body by members of his family at 5:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Coroner Dr. G. A. Steele ruled it an accidental death. Dr. Steele said Sturm's body was found just inside a shed and it appeared he slipped and fell on the gun while entering the building. The ground was very icy near the doorway, the coroner said.

Dr. Steele said Sturm had apparently been dead four to five hours before his body was found. A son said his father did not come in the house for dinner but the family was not concerned because he frequently worked through the noon hour.

When Sturm did not return to the house in the evening, two younger children, on their return from school, made a check of the farm buildings and found the body.

Dr. Steele said the 12-gauge pump shotgun was found near the body with one shell in the magazine and another partly in the chamber. The gun was partially cocked and an empty cartridge was found in the snow outside the shed. A son said the father used the gun rabbit hunting.

Sturm was born on a farm in the town of Menasha Jan. 19, 1895, and lived there all his life. He retired last month. Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Mary Catholic church, Appleton, with burial in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at the Bretschneider Funeral home after 2 p.m. Thursday. The rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Peter Fransway, Appleton, and Susan, at home; four sons, John H., Menasha, Glenn, route 2, Neenah, and Francis and William, at home; one brother, Joseph, Appleton, and five grandchildren.

Special FBI Agent To Give Demonstration

Neenah — Robert M. Fauntleroy, special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will talk to eighth grade boys and members of the Rifle club of the Boys Brigade at 7 p.m. tonight.

Fauntleroy will talk on the careful use of firearms and will give a demonstration. The program was arranged by the Neenah police department. The agent will be introduced by Capt. Henry Kohfeldt.

Rotary Meeting

Menasha — Mrs. Gordon R. McIntyre, Appleton, told Menasha Rotary club members of plans for Peabody Manor at the meeting this noon in Hotel Menasha. Peabody Manor is planned as housing for older persons.

May be Site of Shopping Center, Drive-in First National Bank

Menasha — Sale of the old high school site on Racine street to the First National Bank of Menasha was approved by resolution of the council Tuesday night.

The bank's directors had no comment this morning but reports were the 11-block area probably would be the site of a new shopping center and drive-in bank. Earlier there were reports the bank was attempting to purchase several buildings on the triangle of Main street but failed to acquire options on all of the property needed.

Price will be worked out by the council's finance committee, Mayor R. G. DuCharme and City Atty. William R. Giese who will meet Thursday with bank officials. The resolution, which passed the council unanimously, states the land no longer is needed for public purposes and the public interest would best be served by its sale.

The only questions on the sale were from Ald. Paul Laemmrich and John Klein.

Seek Other Park
Laemmrich, in whose first ward the land lies, objected to immediate sale of the land until alternate playground area for his ward could be secured. By March 15, the council's public buildings and grounds committee is to report back on new play areas, if one can be found.

Klein asked the mayor who had ordered the resolution prepared. The mayor replied he took responsibility for it, since the bank's directors do not wish to wait. He added there will be no commitment to sell the land until a price is worked out and the full council can approve it.

The land extends 263½ feet on Racine street, 362½ feet on First street and 302 on Second street. The old high school stood there until it burned down in 1936. Since then, it has not been dedicated for any other purposes, the mayor said today.

In the last two years, he added, it was zoned for commercial use. At one time, it was considered for a new municipal building site. Presently the land is the site of a large ice skating rink warming shed and some playground equipment. Children from St. Mary school have used the area for a playground in recess periods and it is used in the summer playground program.

11 Lots
It is platted as 11 lots, 131.8 by 60.38 feet. The mayor today reiterated his statement Tuesday that the present bank's building, adjacent to the city office building, is not a part of the land bargain at present. He said serious consideration had been given to it.

Now the council feels the land is not best for a municipal building, the mayor added. If the city ever needs a new building, it probably will purchase other land. "The council feels Menasha should expand its commercial or retail outlets beyond Main street," he commented. "We have offered the land to others, but have gotten only feelers," he said.

"The city does not have to go to bids unless it decides. Under the statutes we can sell land at our own choice," DuCharme cited as a parallel the industrial park in Appleton.

Public Interest
"It will be in the public interest for a better city to have a shopping area. The need has long been felt by Menasha citizens who asked why don't we get more concerns in town in-

Pickard Retires as Family Service Head; Named to Directors

Neenah — After 5 years as president of the Neenah-Menasha Family Service, Inc., S. N. Pickard was moved to the board of directors and John Wilterding was elected president to succeed Pickard.

Mrs. Stanley Severson was named treasurer, succeeding Mrs. Nicholas Gilbert who served the last 5 years. Others named to office were Mrs. Edmund Aylward, vice president, and Mrs. Donald Snyder, secretary.

Named as new members of Family Service, Inc., were Mrs. Edwin West and Mrs. Lyall Williams. The board of directors has five members, the officers and Mr. Pickard.

Secondary treatment is the process of completely disinfecting sewage effluent. Presently, effluent from the local plant is chlorinated before being released into Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Advise 3-Part Sewage Control Program; City To Buy Depth Gauges

Four Steps Recommended by Menasha Engineer to Correct Basement Flooding

Menasha — Purchase of two recording sewage depth gauges and a 3-part program aimed at correcting storm water overflow problems in sanitary sewers were approved Tuesday by the Menasha common council.

The four steps were recommendations contained in a report by City Engineer M. J. Noth on the basement and street flooding problem experienced over the Christmas weekend.

The depth gauges will cost about $516. Money for the purchase was transferred from the contingency fund to the engineer's instrument fund.

The major recommendations in Noth's report is to "assign a house-to-house check of roof leads (downspouts), cisterns, plumbing and foundation drains to the plumbing inspector (Allen E. Merrill) and that a written itemized report be prepared for each inspection and submitted to the board of public works."

To Check Basements
For the inspection, Merrill will make the rounds of the city with the water meter readers and examine plumbing connections in house basements. He will be able to tell which and how many houses have storm water from roofs and around foundations channeled into the sanitary sewer lines.

Noth's survey reports that the 30-inch sanitary sewer running parallel to Tayco street is being blocked by accumulated waste paper from Wisconsin Tissue Mills. The report continued: "Arrangements are being made to clean the tissue mills outlet and our main downstream. The tissue mill wants to hire our crew and equipment to is good until Fox and Mathewson streets, where "the 33-inch sewer stands full with very little movement. At Garfield avenue and Mathewson street the sewer is full and flow is very sluggish.

"There must be some back-up at the plant or a lot of deposition in the 48-inch line on Garfield avenue from Mathewson street to the disposal plant."

Drains Into Sanitary Sewers
In his inspections, Noth has found the catch basin in the alley between the police and fire stations drains storm water into sanitary sewer lines. A corrective measure is being planned.

The storm sewer on Third street between Milwaukee and Racine streets drains into the sanitary sewer. An 18-inch storm sewer which extends to Milwaukee could take care of the storm water from work Saturdays and Sundays when flows are very low from the mill."

Further south, sewage flow

Oshkosh Plans New Program

Graduate Education For Teachers to Begin This Summer

Oshkosh — A special cooperative graduate program with the University of Wisconsin, designed to enhance the effectiveness of teachers in elementary and secondary education, will be launched at Oshkosh State college during the 1960 summer session, Dr. R. J. Ramsden, dean of instruction, said.

The new program was established in response to a recommendation of the coordinating committee for higher education in Wisconsin, to meet the needs of the classroom teacher whose position calls for relatively broad teaching assignments rather than specialized assignments.

The program is sponsored jointly by the college and the University of Wisconsin. A student will complete half of the work at a state college and half at the university. The master's degree will be granted by the university.

To earn a degree, the student will earn 24 credits within the areas of liberal arts, the student's specialization, and teaching subjects. The amount of work taken within each area will vary with the interests and needs of the individual teacher.

Admission requirements to the program are the same as the requirements for admission to the traditional master's degree program. Graduation will depend upon successful completion of course work.

The submitting of a seminar paper and a comprehensive examination before graduation. No grade below a "B" will earn credit.

The program will be activated June 13 when summer school begins.

Six courses will be offered. Two courses constitute the normal student program.

Loses License For Menasha Rink Driving

Menasha — James A. Read, 16, 716 Jefferson street, lost his driver's license for 60 days Monday after pleading guilty of reckless driving. He appeared before Police Justice Arthur J. Ales.

Read was arrested after a citizen complained he drove a car on the Seventh street park ice skating rink Jan. 19.

Police found a large number of children were skating on the rink at the time.

Richard Tuszka, 215 Prospect street, was fined $7 and costs on two charges placed against him Jan. 25. He was fined $5 and costs for operating an unregistered vehicle and $2 and costs for violation of the conditions of his temporary driver's permit. He had two others in the truck cab and six passengers riding in the truck body.

Speaker Analyzes Campaign Issues, Our Foreign Policy

Neenah — The keystone of the President Eisenhower's state of the union message and the forthcoming political campaigns, how "Nixon may very well be a target of time," sleeper campaign issues and the future of United States foreign policy were discussed by a Chicago news analyst for Woman's Tuesday club.

Speaking Tuesday afternoon at Boys' Brigade building, Maurice R. Merryfield said the keynote of the state of the union message and the campaigns can be capsuled into one phrase, "peace and prosperity."

Explaining why Nixon may become a target of time, the news analyst gave five events which could be disadvantageous to the vice president in the next six months. Right now Nixon seems to be riding on the crest of a wave with everything going well. "This could boomerang," pointed out Merryfield.

He pointed to the identification Nixon has with goodwill overtures toward Khrushchev. "If they should fail, Nixon would rightly or wrongly be blamed."

Steel prices may very well be raised by fall, an increase which would touch almost everyone and eliminate the credit Nixon received as being responsible to a great deal for the strike settlement, the speaker said. "Consequently Nixon could again become the target of time."

Steel prices may very well be raised by fall, an increase which would touch almost everyone and eliminate the credit Nixon received as being responsible to a great deal for the strike settlement, the speaker said. "Consequently Nixon could again become the target of time."

Vulnerability

The third area of vulnerability for the administration is the space lag, Merryfield listed. "This is the area where the Democrats are going to try to make hay." Nuclear weapons in a sense are a diplomatic device for blackmail, he commented, suggesting power forces agreements at top conferences.

He listed the decline in farm prices as another target area and the final place where Nixon "may be in a squeeze" if he reflects the President's image. "Can he perpetuate that image?" Merryfield asked.

April Primary

"The eyes of the nation are on you," he told the club members in a discussion of the April primary election. He called April 5 a critical date as it could make or break either of the announced Democratic candidates. "Don't make this a minority report to the nation," he emphasized.

Sleeper issues which are more minor but may help determine the outcome of the primary in Wisconsin and the November election were listed as religion, "bolsism dominating the GOP," Nixon's personality and record and the possibility of the Democratic left wing splitting off from the party.

In terms of foreign policy we must think in terms of the year 2000 if we are going to have any constructive and consistent policy, Merryfield warned. We can't shift our policy every time a new congress is elected, he cautioned.

"We are on the threshold of a more dramatic and dynamic decade than the 50's. The 60's have to look forward to a dynamic, progressive, positive stand," he said.

Order Study Of Room for Older Persons

Contemplate Space In Basement of Menasha Library

Menasha — A recreation room for older persons, in the basement of Elisha D. Smith public library, will be studied by the council's public buildings and grounds committee. Approximate cost of the room's redecorating and conversion is $800, Recreation Director Robert Vanevenhoven and Park and Recreation Board Pres. Robert Schwartz advised.

Mayor R. G. DuCharme said, "I don't know how we will do it this year. We do not have the money in the budget for it."

Not in the budget but approved anyway was purchase of a 1950 panel truck for $300 from the water and light department, to replace a dilapidated 1942 pickup of the street department.

The 1942 truck has operated through 1959 and 1960 without the city street department's bothering to install license plates, tail and stop lights on it.

Ald. Lee Rather, finance committee chairman, pointed out that at budget time last fall the street department wanted both a jeep and a new pickup truck. When cutting the budget it was decided to retain the jeep and eliminate the pickup. Now the department will get both anyway. I don't blame other commissions for wondering what we are doing when we act this way."

Casts Only "No" Vote
On the roll call vote for the truck purchase, Rather cast the only "no" vote.

The mayor, City Atty. William R. Giese and several aldermen will attend a Feb. 17 meeting called by the State Board of Health for discussion of the sewage problem in the town of Menasha, east of Little Lake Butte des Morts.

The mayor said raw sewage is running through open ditches in the area, which poses a health hazard. "The kids there come to Menasha schools."

DuCharme said any proposal for connection to the city sewer system will be on a 100 per cent assessment basis.

Ald. Gordon Schanke said the city should be talking annexation to the town area if any sewer connections are made.

Other Actions

The council also:
Approved purchase of two 1960 Chevrolet sedans from Gibson Company, Inc., Menasha, for a net price of $1,855. The police budget set up an estimate of $1,700 for replacement of the two squad cars. Gibson was the only bidder.

Approved installation of a fire alarm system in the fire department from the Edge-water Paper company plant.

Referred to the police, fire, traffic and safety committee an invitation to join the Twin City Safety council.

Decided the electricity bill for lighting the swimming pool as protection against vandalism should be paid out of the city general budget.

two catch basins to relieve the sanitary sewer, Noth said.

The Willow lane and Keyes street sanitary sewer investigation project will be undertaken this week. Much storm water drains into sanitary sewers, causing some serious backups, Noth pointed out.

Noth also recommended a year-round program of cleaning and checking storm sewers, manholes and the sewers' river and canal crossings.

The DePere street storm sewer, he found, was plugged with silt and stones. It has been cleaned and another manhole between Seventh and Eighth streets installed to make subsequent cleaning easier. More work north of and west on Eighth street is planned.

Noth reported the storm sewer on London street from Jefferson to Fifth needs cleaning. Expansion of the 15-inch line is included in the Ninth street storm sewer project.

Commends Noth

Ald. Lee Rather, finance committee chairman, moved for using contingency fund money without taking the money from other funds. "I don't like to hear the engineer talking of manipulating street department funds." He was referring to Noth's suggestion the depth gauges be bought from board of health or sewer maintenance funds.

Mayor R. G. DuCharme commented that Noth "with limited time and manpower has done a good job." He added that he was informed much of the liquid waste from the tissue mill would not have to be sent through sanitary sewers since it is plain water, not sewage effluent. Noth found average daily water use there is about one million gallons with peaks reaching 14 million.

If city crews work to clean out the interceptor at the mill double time labor rates will be paid by the company, the mayor said.

Interested in establishing a store there, he continued.

"Many paychecks paid in the city are cashed outside the city. Neenah, Appleton and Oshkosh get much of it. There is no situation to reduce shopping here. We hope it is an asset."

Smaller Playgrounds

In the Tuesday council discussion, Ald. Schanke contended smaller playgrounds such as that at Second and Tayco streets should be the type more used by the city than larger play areas.

This morning, the mayor said the council, meeting Monday as a committee-of-the-whole, informally decided the board of education budget for 1960 must be kept as is. The mayor said he will inform the board officially at its Monday meeting.

The council thus refused to restore a requested $7,900 of a $40,000 cut ordered in November. The total budget for schools this year is $872,965.

Set Tentative Fees For Guidance Center

Residence in County for 30 Days Will be Criteria for Admission, Group Decides

Oshkosh — Eligibility and fees for admittance to the Winnebago County Guidance center were discussed by the guidance committee of the county board and the three-man staff in a joint meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Pending study of other clinics around the state, residence in Winnebago county for 30 days will be the criteria for admission. Fees were tentatively set for a $15 token charge in advance for evaluation and a minimum of $1 an hour for treatment. A maximum fee of $20 an hour, based on ability to pay also was set. The maximum fee would encourage patients to obtain treatment from private psychiatrists.

For non-residents the evaluation would be $35 and treatment would be $25 an hour. Use of the county's newest venture by governmental and outside agencies was also discussed.

No 'House Calls'

Dr. George W. Arndt, psychiatrist, emphasized the importance of confining the center's activities to the clinic, which would mean no 'house calls. He also urged that patients would have to come to the clinic of their own "free will." No age limit is being set on admissions but staff and committee members agreed that the clinic was being set up primarily for children.

A report from the district attorney's office on staff liability and the need for malpractice insurance was read. Concluding that the county is not liable for torts of staff members, the district attorney's report recommended that malpractice insurance should be obtained by individual staff members.

In line with Dr. Arndt's suggestion that the new venture be protected, the guidance committee moved to investigate and procure malpractice insurance.

Open House Feb. 21

An open house of the center's facilities in the WNAW building on county trunk will be held Sunday, Feb. 21. The center was to have telephone service today and a receptionist-stenographer would begin her duties Feb. 15. Seven applications were received and four were to be interviewed this week.

In addition to Dr. Arndt, who is employed on a part-time basis until July 1, the center is staffed by Dr. John W. Giebink, psychologist, and Fred C. Kepfild, psychiatric social worker. Dr. Arndt is completing his work at Tomah Veterans hospital, where all three men were on the staff. The center's services will become available March 1.

Car Climbs Terrace, Driver, 21, Injured

Menasha — Ferdinand J. Kulick, 21, 356 Seventh street, received a minor head injury early Sunday when his car ran off Seventh street onto the terrace, broke down two small trees and snapped off a utility pole. # Ankerson Moves Into Second Place in Mid-East Scoring Menasha — LeRoy Weyenberg of first place Kaukauna still holds the Mid-Eastern conference scoring lead but his margin over new runner-up, Jack Ankerson of Neenah, has dwindled to three points.

Weyenberg chalked up 21 points in the win over Kimberly while Ankerson turned in 29 in the victory over Shawano, boosting him into second ahead of Darrell Jansen and Don Hearden of Kimberly.

Weyenberg's log shows 189 points, Ankerson 186, Jansen 177 and Hearden 175. Jansen had 18 points and Hearden scored 12 last weekend.

Ron Hoppe of Shawano still ranks fifth with 160, after getting 14 in the loss to Neenah. Juniors Bill Ritchie and Dave Ristau of Menasha are next with 141 and 140 respectively.

The win moved Winneconne into a fifth place tie with Omro, both with 4-5 records. Bear Creek, now 3-7 in the loop, dropped into seventh place alone. The victorious Wolves are 4-10 overall.

Town Board Talks of Help For Assessor

Neenah — Plans for special help for the assessor were discussed at an informal meeting of the Neenah town board Tuesday night.

Some of the assessor's work was outlined to give board members a better look at what specific problems might be encountered.

Town Chairman Laurel K. Heaney said that although the board could not tell the assessor what to assess any property at, it is allowed to give help.

The board also discussed plans for a future meeting with Kenneth L. Schellie and associates. The planning firm hired by the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission, wants to meet with all member municipalities.

Neenah — The Mid-Eastern conference merry-go-round takes another spin Friday night with Kaukauna and Kimberly facing opponents whom they took care of handily the first time around.

Kaukauna, on top alone at this late date for the first time in a good many seasons, has a home date against sixth-place Two Rivers. Runnerup Kimberly, looking up at the top for the first time since the 1957-58 campaign, moves down the Fox Cities to Menasha.

2-Team Race
Neenah's fast-rising Rockets are at Clintonville, and New London moves up to Shawano to complete the Friday schedule.

The topsy-turvy race which has seen the seventh-place club (Clintonville) defeat the unbeaten leader (Kimberly) one week and then lose to winless New London the next time out, has developed into a 2-team contest.

Shawano all but eliminated itself when it bowed to Neenah last week. Menasha's midseason troubles knocked it three games off Kaukauna's pace and after winning only one of its first four, Neenah has moved up fast, but its poor start put a serious crimp in its title aspirations.

The Rockets could, however, make it hot for the contenders for they play both the Ghosts and Kimberly at home where they have won seven straight.

Wolf Joins Vikings for 2nd Semester

Knocke Averages
17.5 to Pace
Team in Scoring

Guard "Chuck" Knocke paced first semester scoring for the Lawrence college basketball team with a total of 227 points—an average of 17.5.

The only other Vike who averaged better than 10 a game was Jim Rasmussen — with 12.1.

Bolstered by the addition of Loren Wolf, the Vikes begin second-semester play here Friday night against Cornell. The Vikes were due to resume organized team practice today. Their record before the semester break was 3-10.

Wolf formerly captained the state champion Shawano High school team, which included such other notables as Marty Gharriy and John Cantwell. Wolf has completed his 2-semester residence at Lawrence to become eligible for athletics. He transferred from Southern Methodist, where he led the freshman team in scoring.

'Tiger' Jones
Over Greaves

Chicago — Old pro "Tiger" Jones returns to the scene of his greatest triumph tonight as an 8-5 choice over Willie Greaves, 24-year-old Canadian middleweight champion.

Five years ago, Tiger took on "Sugar" Ray Robinson as a 7-1 underdog at Chicago stadium and handed the Harlem dandy, who was sniffing the comeback trail, a 10-round beating. This launched Jones into a career as one of the most durable TV fight performers in the business.

Slam-Bang Stalker
He will be making his thirty-seventh appearance on television (9 p.m. CST, ABC) against Greaves, whom he defeated in a hard-fought scrap at Washington, D. C., in 1956.

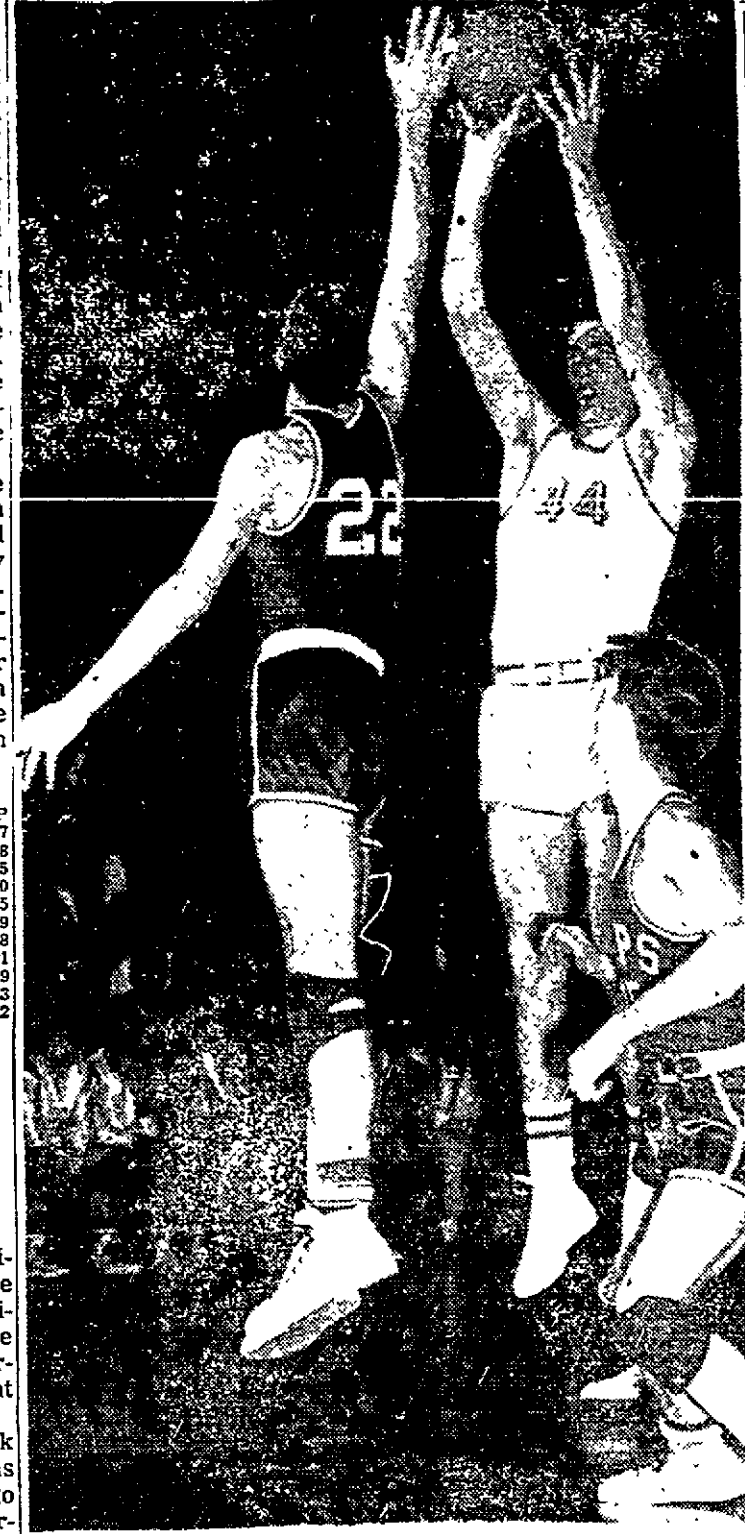

Jones, 31, a slam-bang stalker, whose combinations are sharp but lack knockout power, has been biding his time of late. In his last start, June 26, he defeated Victor Ziajazar.

In all he has a 48-26-4 record and only 12 knockouts.

'Greaves' is a crisp puncher and numbers 17 kayoes among 30 victories in 42 bouts since turning pro under the guidance of the late Jake Mintz in 1955.

Los Angeles — Jimmy Hornsby, 136½, Los Angeles, stopped Aissa Hashas, 134½, Algeria, 8.

Richmond, Calif. — Lyle Mackin, 150, Oakland, Calif., stopped Karl Helz Guder, 157, Los Angeles, 9.

Packers Sign Joe Gomes And Harry Ball

Contract to Nine

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Packers announced the signing of two more draft choices today. And now the 1960 selection list is narrowed down to two possible who can't sign because they are in spring sports.

Latest to enter the Packer fold are Joe Gomes, a hot defensive halfback prospect from South Carolina, and tackle Harry Ball, a 240-pound tackle from Boston college.

Gomes is the seventeenth pick; Ball No. 12.

The Packers drafted 20 players last Dec. 1. Four were given away in trades for Lamar McHan, Hank Jordan, Bobby Freeman and Ken Beck. One extra was received from Detroit for Ollie Spencer.

17 Athletes

Thus, the Bays came out with 17 athletes. Of that number, nine have been signed by the Packers, three went to Canada, one skipped to the American Football league, two are juniors who can't sign until '61 and two desire to retain their amateur ranking for the purpose of competing in spring sports.

Going to Canada were these Big 10 conference stars: halfback Bob Jeter of Iowa, the No. 2 choice; tackle Mike Wright of Minnesota, No. 6; and end Dick Brooks of Purdue, the nineteenth choice.

The lone loss to the AFL, and this is a surprise in view of the so-called high-pricing from that league, was Don Hitt, guard from Oklahoma State, who signed with the Houston Oilers. Hitt might have been convinced on GB but his wife is a Houston native and wanted to remain there.

Still competing are Dale

Eddie Mathews Signs For Estimated $50,000; 'Red,' McHale at Odds

Club Seeks Some Assurance That Schoendienst Can Play Regularly

Milwaukee — Eddie Mathews, the home run king of the major leagues, signed his 1960 contract with the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday. He'll receive an estimated $50,000.

"I'm certainly satisfied with the way things turned out," Mathews said with a wide smile. "It's a good contract."

Mathews met with John McHale, general manager of the Braves, at the team's offices in County stadium in late afternoon. In 15 minutes, Mathews emerged and said he was ready for spring training.

First Hint

The salary makes Mathews one of the highest paid performers in baseball.

The big slugger's signing was the first hint of a thaw in the frozen contract talks between McHale and other regulars on the club. At the top of the list of dissatisfied players still to be signed are the names of Henry Aaron, Johnny Logan, "Red" Schoendienst and Wes Covington. Infielder Frank Torre is the only regular besides Mathews who has come to terms.

"I'll keep right on working out for the next two weeks," Mathews said, "then I'll take

Auburn Trips Georgia Tech Quint, 48-45

Bradley Shades
Seattle, 83-80,
To Pad Streak

By the Associated Press

Auburn has Georgia Tech's number and it may wind up costing the Ramblin' Wreck first Southeastern conference basketball title in 22 years.

With a 48-45 ball control victory Tuesday night, the Tigers made it six in a row against sixth-rated Tech over a 3-year span, boosted their home court winning streak to 28, and scrambled a SEC race Tech seemed to have nailed when it beat Kentucky for the second time last week.

83-80 Win

Bradley's second-ranking Braves padded their winning streak to nine and their overall record to 15-1 with an 83-80 victory at Seattle but tenth-ranked Texas A&M (13-2) and Memphis State (12-3) were beaten in other important Tuesday games.

Santa Clara (14-6) handed the Aggies a 66-55 whipping in the windup of the Texans' 2-game California tour, and Tennessee Tech nipped Memphis State, 67-65, on Jimmy Hagan's basket at the buzzer. Bradley, which plays at Gonzaga Thursday before getting back to its Missouri Valley conference duel with top-ranked Cincinnati, got 24 points from soph Chet Walker and 20 from Dan Smith in its sizzler with Seattle.

Northwestern of Watertown staged off a furious second-half rally by visiting Fox Valley Lutheran High school opened a 15-point lead (42-27) at halftime. FVL cut away 13 points of its deficit in the third quarter when it switched to a zone defense. However, the Foxes never were able to get closer than two points.

Tuesday night to post a 57-55 basketball win.

Northwestern, which had beaten the Foxes, 41-36, earlier in the season, Bartmann

After scoring 21 points in the third period, the Foxes went almost 6 minutes before hitting from the floor in the final period. In the last nine seconds, Bob Luebke sank a free throw and Dennis Dobberstein counted a goal for the visitors.

Only 6 Baskets

Center Dick Oelhafer scored 24 points for Northwestern, while Bob Bartmann hit 22 for FVL.

The Foxes, who play Winnebago Lutheran of Fond du Lac here Friday night, now have a record of 6-10.

In the midst of one of the most frustrating seasons in Appleton High basketball history, the cage Terrors lost to Manitowoc, 50-49, Tuesday night in the AHS gym.

Fifth Narrow Loss

The defeat was Appleton's fifth by three points or less. The Terrors are now 7-6 on the season. Just 14 more points scored at the right time would have made their standard 12-1.

A full house of about 1,900 fans saw Appleton collapse from a 19-13 lead to a 27-20 halftime deficit Tuesday and then struggle vainly to catch up the rest of the way.

AHS bore a little resemblance to the club which had thumped Manitowoc, 59-47, on the tough Shipbuilder floor in early December. Nor did the Terrors look like the team which had dropped Green Bay West into the co-lead last Friday, 61-50, also on a foreign court.

A shining light Tuesday was the hosts' spectacular Ron Abel. The 6-5 senior was the game's top scorer with 18 points, another consistent effort right on his average.

Blocking Shots

He was in his finest shot-blocking fettle, and rebounded well. Ron was 8-for-23 from the floor.

He emerged the victor in an interesting personal duel with Manty's 6-5 junior Paul Meany, who totaled 17 tallies to lead the winners. The pair,

Marquette '5' Plays Detroit Again Tonight

Detroit — Marquette will try to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of Detroit when it takes on the Titans in a basketball game here tonight.

The Warriors had a 23-game home winning streak snapped at Milwaukee earlier this season when the Titans whipped them, 89-85. In the only other game for Detroit since that time it won from Central Michigan, 82-62, to give it a 14-2 record for the season.

Coach Ed Hickey of the Warriors has been working on a defense that he hopes will stop Dave DeBusschere, the Titan's great sophomore who has averaged 24.4 points and 20 rebounds a game.

Mike Herres, Tom Laux Pace 2nd Straight Win

Hortonville — New London High's basketball team is sporting a 2-game winning streak today, a rare distinction for the cage Bulldogs.

New London shaded Hortonville, 52-50, Tuesday night after scoring its first Mid-Eastern conference triumph in two seasons, 57-39, over Clintonville last Friday. New London is 3-8 on the season, Hortonville is 11-3.

Tuesday's game, tight all the way, was tied, 11-11, after one quarter. Hortonville spurred in front, 29-24, at the half and led during much of the third stanza. But the comebacking Bulldogs were

The Ships' Art Neillitz scored from inside but then the winners' Ron Schuh committed his fifth foul (with 1:08 on the clock) against an Appleton press.

Nussbaum converted both free throws for 50-49. Using a zone press, Appleton picked off a long Manitowoc pass but a Nussbaum shot bounced up off the rim and struck a basket support and it was Manty's ball with 40 seconds to go.

Favored For Title

Neenah's powerful frosh are now heavily favored to take the crown. After Thursday's contest, Neenah plays its remaining games against second division foes Wilson, Menasha and Madison.

Neenah dispatched Roosevelt, 54-41, in the 1959-60 season opener, displaying superior rebounding punch.

New York — "The off-again, on-again, maybe-so, maybe-no, Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson return bout for the world heavyweight championship was practically a reality today.

Not quite, though.

But it appeared that most of the major stumbling blocks had been cleared and that the new promoters, Feature Sports, incorporated, merely had to sit out the required waiting period for a license to stage the bout.

Johansson, who lifted the crown from Patterson last year, and his adviser, Edwin Ahlquist, headed home for Sweden in a happy frame of mind Tuesday night.

"I'm confident the contract will be signed when I return to the U.S. later this month," beamed Johansson.

"I talked to the Feature Sports people and the contract is in the process of being written. Everything looks fine for the fight in June."

Back Feb. 20

Ingo will be back Feb. 20 for a TV show. He thinks the contracts will be signed a few days later.

While Ingo settles some European business matters, the wheels are grinding this side of the Atlantic to license Feature Sports, headed by Roy Cohn.

Ski Federation Bars 2 Nations From Olympics

Squaw Valley, Calif. — Nationalist China and India's 1-man team are out of the Winter Olympics unless they can get a quick change in international federation rulings.

Banning of Nationalist China and India Tuesday dropped the number of competing nations for the Feb. 18-28 games to 31.

The International Ski federation (FIS) ruled out skiers of both countries because they were not members of that organization.

Beloit Defeats Lake Forest '5'

By The Associated Press

Dennis Hodge set the scoring pace with 21 points as Beloit college defeated Lake Forest, 70-61, in a basketball game at the Illinois city Tuesday night. Beloit led at the half, 42-30.

St. Norbert defeated Ripon, 84-76.

Ron Brault scored 29 points to pace the Knights. Bruce White was high for Ripon with 22 points.

The visitors stalled for half a minute and then Appleton's Dave LaViolette fouled Tom Pollack, who had made 10 straight foul shots to help beat Oshkosh, missed.

The home club got the rebound and took a time out.

Terror Coach Dick Emanuel, who must be developing ulcers watching this club play, set up a screen play for Nussbaum with 11 seconds showing. John got the ball and the screen but the ball slipped out of bounds and time ran out.

Nussbaum counted 15 points for his best scoring display since joining the club in early January. His six goals came on just 17 shots and five of them were dispatched from medium or long range.

Appleton JVs Drop Manty

68-52 Verdict Is Losers' Most Decisive Setback

In what was easily their best offensive display of the season, Appleton High's junior varsity basketball Terrors crushed first-place Manitowoc, 68-52, here Tuesday night.

The loss, Manty's most decisive of the season, was just the second in nine Fox Valley JV conference games and the third in 12 starts overall for the Ships. Appleton is now 5-8 overall and 5-4 in the conference.

Extra Drills

Coach Bill Fitzpatrick has been giving his cagers some extra drills after a disappointing loss to Pacelli of Stevens Point Saturday night. The height-lacking Pacelli squad out-rebounded the Dutchmen in taking a 73 to 69 victory.

St. John has a 2-4 conference record, good for fourth place behind St. Mary's Menasha, Catholic Central o Marinette and Abbot Pennington of DePere. Springs and Premontre are below the Chuters in the standings.

Guards Dave LaViolette (2 for 11) and Pete Treiber (0 for-4) couldn't provide much outside help as Emanuel went with a "3-guard" offense almost all the way.

With injured 6-3 forecourter Harold Lodholz still on the sidelines, Emanuel had one of his other big men—Abel, Paul VanderHeyden and Marty Schultz—resting on the bench at all times in reserve.

Fast-Break Potential

LaViolette, Treiber, Nussbaum and Bob Cavert (or, rather, a combination of three of them) gave AIS fast-break potential, but the club was kicking the ball away on "break" situations. Rebounding strength was sacrificed.

A 47-21 loser to Manty the first time the clubs met, Appleton barreled off to a 22-8 quarter lead and was on top, 37-15, at the half.

Appleton had four boys in double figures. John Wendt was high with 18, Mike Lee coined 17, Tom Longiro 14 and John Manier 10. Tom O'Grady and Dale Aulik each counted 14 for Manty.

The winners missed just eight of 28 free throw tries.

Fitzpatrick has been shuffling his usual starters and reserves in order to come up with a combination that clicks. Probable starters against the Cadets include Mike Bongers and Andy Ebben at guards, Harland Hietpas at center and Ed Hammen and McHale said there was no clause in the 1960 contract given Schoendienst that specified the number of games he had to play, but this was brought up in discussions between the two men. Schoendienst has refused to sign the contract, contending he had been asked to take a 25 per cent cut in salary. McHale said the contract did not include "a full 25 per cent pay cut."

Hackbart, the Wisconsin quarterback, and Garney Henley, Huron, S. D., college halfback. Hackbart is a baseball player while Henley is a trackman.

Hackbart figures to make his last big baseball fling this spring. Barring an exceptionally good season, especially at the plate, plus major league offers, Hackbart is likely to play pro football. A native of Madison, Hackbart is pleased that the Packers drafted him but he hasn't committed himself.

Hackbart was drafted by Minneapolis-St. Paul of the AFL but that team quit the new league and its draft picks were turned over to Oakland. Henley has expressed great interest in the Packers and likely will sign as soon as he finishes track.

Gomes is Fast Gomes has all the makings of a good defensive halfback. He stands 6-1 and packs 200 pounds. He's fast, an army veteran, and a former basketball player. His cage ability proves that he can leap and get off his feet.

Scouts claim Gomes is like a coach in the defensive backfield. In addition, he's a good ball-hawk and a sharp tackler, with good balance.

Gomes led his team on kickoff returns with eight for 189 yards and a 23.6 average. He scored 18 points and ranked third in rushing with 263 yards in 49 trips for an average of 5.4. He also caught six passes for 69 yards and one touchdown.

Tittle Signs for His 13th Season

San Francisco —Y. A. Tittle, balding San Francisco 49ers quarterback, has signed for another season with the National Football league club, his thirteenth year in pro ball. In announcing his contract Tuesday, the 49ers gave no hint of the salary for the 33-year-old passer, but it is believed to be about $20,000. It will be Tittle's tenth season with San Francisco. Prior to coming here, he played three years with the Baltimore Colts.

Stockbridge High Trips Lourdes Five

Stockbridge — Shooting 52 per cent for the game, Stockbridge High school's basketball Indians downed Lourdes of Oshkosh, 81-67, Tuesday night at Lourdes.

Lourdes, a new 2-year Catholic high school, pressed the victorious Indians all the way. Stockbridge pocketed its twelfth win in 15 starts.

Louis Hemauer scored 20 points for the Indians and three teammates were in double figures. Dave Putzer topped the losers with 20 points.

Stockbridge also was hot from the foul line with 23-for-32 shooting. Lourdes wired 11 for 27 and hit a fine 48 per cent from the floor.

Milt Drier downed the maples at a 611 rate for the Teens in the Comic Couples league at Hahn's over the weekend. The Puffles (21-12) topped three games and are tied with the Jiggs for first place.

Mary Monn thumped a 205 game and a 510 triple for women's honors. Bob Jensen cracked a 579 and Frank Sanders, Jr., a 570.

Bobcats Play Japanese '6' Thursday

Green Bay — The accent will be on speed when the Green Bay Bobcats Central Hockey league leaders, face the Japanese Olympic hockey team at the Arena here Thursday night.

Though they have three good-sized players, most of the Japanese are small and, as a consequence, "fast and agile skaters," according to Don Clark, Bobcat general manager, who witnessed their first American appearance against the University of Minnesota-Duluth in Duluth over the weekend.

The Japanese invaders, comparatively new to the ice sport, average only 5 feet, 6 inches in height, but are sturdily built, averaging 150.6 pounds.

Hamann Plays in Reunion Tilt; ACC Plans Big 'Spiel'

have fans in Minneapolis, and doubtlessly some of them made occasional trips to Green Bay for games. The eventual line-up of teams in the league will depend somewhat on whether the Cardinals stay in Chicago. The Cards, of course, haven't done too well at the gate in Chicago—and, in fact, played twice in Minneapolis in '59. It's considered possible the Cards' franchise will be moved to St. Louis in a year or two.

Kimberly Principal Ray Hamann, one-time University of Wisconsin standout and later an Oshkosh All-Star, got back into the basketball/harness Sunday in the Sheboygan Redskin-Oshkosh reunion game and scored a basket for old-time's sake. Bobby Cook, with still a pretty good flair for shooting, led the Redskins to a 45-41 win with 10 points. Des Smith was high for Oshkosh with nine. No one had a chance to get too tired, since 36 players saw action.

Jim McLaughlin, Baltimore farm director, explains in The Sporting News why the Orioles moved into the Fox Cities and dropped their Amarillo, Texas, affiliation: "The players signed in our first three or four year... have now either graduated to triple-A or the majors or have been weeded out. We now have a new crop of youngsters signed the past two seasons. They appear ready for B and C ball, but for the most part may be a year or two away from A or AA." In addition to their Foxes affiliation, the 'Orioles have general working agreements with Miami (AAA), Aberdeen (C), Stockton (C), Leesburg (D) and Bluefield (D) as well as a limited agreement with Vancouver of the Pacific Coast league.

Though several hundred fans were turned away at the threshold of a great basketball game in Kimberly (the Papermakers vs. Kaukauna) last Friday not all of them were discouraged enough to leave the grounds. They waited anxiously outside the gym doors to get periodic reports on the score.

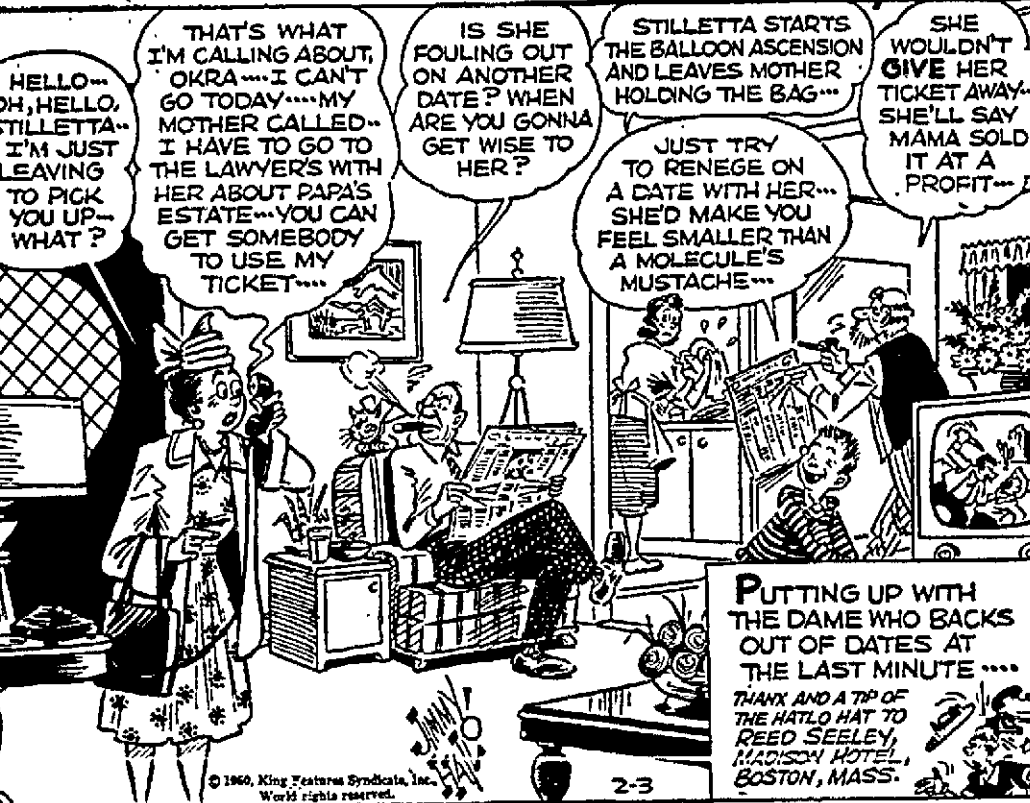

Add sports chuckles: Jimmy Dykes says he had a great bench at Detroit last year—all wood... Bob Hope observes, "The Los Angeles Rams had a successful season in 1959—not one of them was picked up for vagrancy."... Joe Garagiola tells of a rookie's reply when asked what his best position was in the field: "Like this—sort of bent over."

The Appleton Curling club plans to make its invitational bonspiel later this month the biggest in its history. Chances for a 32-rink tourney look good. Two Canadian clubs have even expressed an interest in trying out the ACC's luxurious new facilities.

Kimberly's Don Vander Velden, a highly promising UW football end as a sophomore in 1958, has re-enrolled at Madison for the second semester after being out of school last fall.

Dave VanderMeulen, who has started the last two games for the University of Wisconsin basketball team, is the son of former Oshkosh All-Star Augie VanderMeulen. Augie, who once coached at Beaver Dam, is now vice-principal at Madison East High school.

out too much difficulty. Two Rivers is the only lower division club which hasn't sprung an upset, except possibly for its opening game when it surprised Shawano but the Cool city boys went into the game with three non-conference wins.

The Ghosts submerged Two Rivers 59-45 in their December meeting on the latter's court, paced by Lee Weyenberg's 26 points.

Kimberly ran up a 94-76 win over Menasha in their first meeting, the top offensive total by a conference team this season. The Jays had lost two straight before defeating Two Rivers last week.

Rangers Blank Pond's '6', 7-0

New London will try to make it two straight at the expense of a stumbling Shawano team, which has lost three of its last four starts. The Bulldogs caught the Indians in the midst of a hot streak the first time around and were dropped, 38-37.

The Vanderloop Rangers (5-1) blanked Pond's (1-5) 7-0, in the Appleton Recreation department's Major Hockey league action last week.

W. Bevers and Floyd Romanesko each scored a pair of goals for the victors, who poured in five goals in the final stanza.

These Triplet Holstein Bull calves were born to the Holstein in the background on the Mike Schuessler farm, route 3, Kaukauna. This was the first time in 35 years of farming Schuessler ever had triplet calves born. The face marking of each is almost identical. The calf was bred artificially by Badger Breeders.

RAMBLIN' 'ROUND with Roy

Farming, without a doubt, has its bright and often unsung moments. Triplet calves and large litters of pigs are born. New barns are built, bulk tank coolers are installed, and purebred stock bought and sold.

Much is not always considered news—no matter how important it may seem to individuals concerned. But sometimes others enjoy hearing of these activities. City dwellers often want to know what is "going on down on the farm."

The farm editor, in his ramblings, hears of these things and this column will tell stories that are just a little different.

Anyone who has a new addition on the farm or something a little special may send it to the Post-Crescent farm editor. Items of general interest will appear in this column.

Herman C. Stichman, route 2, New London, a pioneer breeder of registered

Holstein cattle, has sold all his milking stock to Karl K.
Nielsen, Bear Creek, and Donald Everts, New London.
Stichtman, 69, started breeding his line in 1913. He has been a DHIA member 38 years. One of his cows, Ervin Colantha Ormsby, lived to be 20 years old and gave birth to 18 calves.

The farmer never purchased a cow after his herd was established. One of his cows was featured on the front cover of a Holstein magazine in 1945. It also was the second best cow in the district Stars of the Milky Way at the Wisconsin state fair. His herd averaged about 500 pounds of butter fat with 4 per cent milk for the last 20 years.

Outagamie County Agent
John Powers compiled some data on dairy exports from the United States last year. A total of 1,300,000-000 pounds of dairy products were exported, with a value of $144 million.
Sixty-six per cent of the exports moved under specific government programs. The rest were sold commercially. Exports account for 2 per cent of the United States milk output.

The Christianson Brothers,
Shiocton, and Charles Kelly,
Appleton, were among 958 new members admitted to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America recently.

Call of 'Timber' Again Rings in Town of Lebanon

BY LETTIE B. RITCHIE

Royalton—The call of "timber" may be heard these days in the town of Lebanon.

Woodsmen with axe and buzz-saw once again bring down trees for lumber, timbers and fence and telephone poles in an annual harvest.

The stand of timber, now second growth, was 22,800 acres when the first settlers came there in 1852 and 54.
That same area today is the township of Lebanon and has 6,875 acres left in woodland.

cedars bought land for $1.25 an acre more than 100 years ago. They were Hurleys, Gar-mans, Egans, Kellys, Everts and McClores. These people still have descendants living there today. There is no village in Lebanon township.
Farm population is 774.

Big Three

Corn, Oats, Hay Continue to be Major Value Crops

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Scores of crops have a significant part in the Wisconsin agricultural economy, but the big three hold their dominant role year after year.

Corn, hay and oats accounted for 86 per cent of the value of all Wisconsin farm crops harvested last year, a position they have held for a long time, according to the annual crop summary published by the agricultural reporting service of the state and federal departments of agriculture.

Corn accounted for 38 per cent of the gross value of all crops, hay 32 per cent and oats 16 per cent, most of them in turn represented in values for feeding to livestock and especially dairy cattle.

The cash crop income of Wisconsin farmers comes mostly from a diversified list of other crops, including potatoes, tobacco, fruit, truck and canning crops.

The brightest story among the cash crops last year was written by potatoes, which accounted for a farm value of more than $14,000,000, or about 42 per cent above a year ago as a result of increased production and higher prices.

Of the vegetables for processing, peas ranked highest with a farm value of $8,656,000, followed by sweet corn with nearly $7,000,000.

Sweet corn yields were unusually high last year, but the pea volume declined somewhat from the previous year.

The total value, as computed by the state statisticians, of all Wisconsin crops harvested last year was about $510,000,000, about $25,000,000 above the total for the previous year.

Red Clover Not Suggested In Mixtures With Alfalfa

Red clover can be too competitive for alfalfa in the seedling year especially if cool temperatures and favorable moisture conditions prevail. Difference in type of growth during the seedling year puts alfalfa at a disadvantage.

Red clover makes a heavy rosette in contrast to a less sturdy and slender upright type of growth for alfalfa. The inclusion of even as little as 3 or 4 pounds of red clover seed in the mixture can result in a much greater amount of red clover than is wanted in the first harvest year. The inclusion of red clover in a mixture with alfalfa may result in good yields the first year but also be the cause of lower yields in subsequent years because of the resulting thinner stands of alfalfa.

The inclusion of red clover in mixtures with alfalfa or alfalfa-ladino with or without timothy or bromegrass was a standard recommendation many years ago. Often this was necessary because of very short supplies of seed of recommended alfalfa varieties. Many times, the lime level of the soil had not been corrected sufficiently for the satisfactory establishment and growth of alfalfa. Incomplete surface drainage was another reason as was wide-spread differences in the price per pound of seed during some years.

Today, there is no justifiable reason for the use of these "shot gun" mixtures. Survey figures show that red clover is still being mixed with alfalfa on more than 40 per cent of the acreage sown to alfalfa. There is very little evidence to indicate that this is a desirable practice.

On soils adapted to alfalfa in long rotations, good stands and yields can be assured by leaving red clover out of the mixture.

On soils not adapted to the satisfactory production of alfalfa, red clover alone or in mixture with timothy or ladino and timothy is recommended.

Tree Thinning May Be Common Job In Private Stands

First Such State Project Being Done on Hartman's Creek Woods

Waupaca — A first thinning project for a state owned plantation will soon be a common operation among millions of private trees planted in Waupaca county.

The trees are located on the Hartman's creek acreage about six miles southwest of Waupaca. They were planted under a WPA project in 1940 and were among the first of 15,000,000 trees planted here since then.

The Hartman's thinning will serve as a guide for forester's recommendations in future projects.

• Give Room
Forester Dale Tubbs plans to give trees ample room for growth and establish the area for economical future logging.

Trees have already been marked in the 200 acre main plantation of white and Norway pine. Foresters would like to thin only the poorer trees. However, future logging must be kept in mind.

Instead, they clean out every third row of the plantation. It provides access ways for logging equipment. If trees are left crowded growth is hampered.

Straight Rows

The importance of planting in straight rows is seen at Hartman's creeks. Rows of any type are difficult to find — thus, thinning out every third row proves difficult.

Profit, if any, from the first thinning will be small, Tubbs says. Most wood in the 30-foot-tall stand are about five inches at the base and will be used as pulp wood.

Thinning now pays for itself in better tree dividends later, Tubbs said.

Another Project

Another project following thinning may be pruning of dead branches. Tubbs recommends pruning all dead limbs and two whorls of live ones for best results. This minimizes knots in the stand.

Composition of the state owned woodlot is 175 acres white and Norway pine, 108 acres water and marsh, 17 acres oak, 12 acres tamarack, five acres aspen and three acres white hardwood.

The area was purchased as a fish hatchery in the mid '30s from George Allen. It has not been used in recent years.

4-H Club Leader To Make Trip

Waupaca — Allie Poehlman, a Hobart 4-H club leader, will be among the top youth poultry raisers in the state attending a fact finding conference Feb. 11 to 13 at Kansas City, Kansas.

Miss Poehlman was county winner in 1959 and among top state winners. The conference will feature tours, clinics, demonstrations and panel discussions on poultry problems. She has been a Key award winner and participated in clothing, garden, food preservation, forestry, dairy and junior leadership projects.

The trip winner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Poehlman, route 3, New London.

Mix With Water
The housewife would handle the product much as she now uses frozen concentrated orange juice — by thawing out a can and mixing it with two cans of water.

The main advantage the concentrate has over fluid milk concerns storage — it can be stored for a much longer time and requires only about one-third as much space. Storage space can be either in a deep-freeze or a

Post-Crescent Photos

Way of Producing Frozen Concentrated Milk Found

A method for producing good tasting frozen concentrated milk has been developed by University of Wisconsin dairy scientists. And a consumer survey with the product indicates it has sales potential.

The first part of the manufacturing procedure is much like that for sterilized concentrated milk. High quality raw milk is pasteurized, homogenized and concentrated to contain about 36 per cent total solids. Then it is packaged in cans and undergoes another heat treatment. After this, the canned concentrate is cooled and finally frozen.

Stored in a freezer at around 10 degrees, the product keeps its good flavor for at least three and one-half months. In some batches, storage life has been around 6 months. Researchers have set this as their goal in further development of the process.

As the concentrate cools to 105 degrees, it becomes essential not to shake or mix it. Shaking of the concentrate during the cooling process was very harmful, reducing storage life to around one month.

Properly processed frozen concentrate was well accepted by some 200 families in a consumer survey. Cans of the new product were distributed to families in Madison during the summer. Information on how they used the product and what they thought of it was obtained.

Some Like It Better
Most of the people who used the concentrate for drinking — 80 per cent of them — said they liked it just as well as fresh whole milk. Six per cent actually liked it better. Less than 15 per cent of the people said the product was not as good as fresh milk for drinking.

Replies of those using the concentrate as cream or for cooking were similar or even more favorable. However, the housewives found the product couldn't substitute for whipping cream — a fact that

Contented Cow Isn't Always Just That Way

The so-called "contented cow" isn't always so contented.

In fact, she is often just the opposite, and subjected to great stress, the American foundation for animal health says.

The foundation cited a stress disease known as ketosis, causing heavy losses on dairy farms at this time of year. All-out efforts to combat it are urged. The disease strikes high-producing cows during the years of their greatest milk output. It generally develops during, or just after calving, when heaviest stress is placed on the cow's system.

Farmers were cautioned to watch for such danger signals as depression or excitement, loss of weight, poor appetite, paralysis or incoordination.

In "lactation" ketosis, the sickness can be cleared up if the animal is treated soon enough. Veterinarians now use special types of injections to treat the condition. Recoveries sometimes occur within a few hours.

Prevention is important, too, the foundation says. Farmers are being urged to provide plenty of good quality feed and to guard high-producing cows against stress conditions, if possible.

Why did they like the concentrate better? The most frequent reason stated was a "richer taste" than for fresh milk. Next most frequent was a reply that the concentrate was more convenient — presumably referring to the small storage space required.

Those who didn't like the concentrate — and they were very few — criticized it for "chalky or cooked flavor" or for being "too thin".

Most of the people said they'd buy some frozen concentrate for 20 cents per quart equivalent if fluid milk were selling for 20 cents.

More than 1 per cent said they'd pay more than 20 cents for the concentrate, and 23 per cent said the concentrate would have to be one to seven cents less than fluid milk.

Election Rule Change to be Campaign Issue

Edward Kennedy Calls Revision A Manipulation

A weekend change in rules governing the Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary will be made an issue in the state campaign of Sen. John F. Kennedy, Edward (Ted) Kennedy, the presidential hopeful's younger brother promised today.

The called the change "a manipulation by Humphrey forces."

Kennedy, 28, a Massachusetts attorney, currently is devoting his time to his brother's campaign. He managed John Kennedy's winning campaign for reelection as Massachusetts senator in 1958.

The state Democratic administrative committee last weekend reduced the number of at-large delegates who will go to the popular vote winner from 10 to 5. The group also increased from 2 to 21 the votes for delegates elected in congressional district voting.

Late Rule Change

This means the winner of the popular vote might not necessarily win a majority of state delegate votes to the National Democratic convention, Kennedy said.

Kennedy wasn't sure which member of the Kennedy family would visit Outagamie county next, but said, "It might be Jack."

Edward is visiting Wisconsin county Democratic parties to plan the senator's grass roots campaign. He is accompanied by Vincent Anderson, Fond du Lac, president of the state Kennedy for President organization. They met with Outagamie county Democrats at a coffee hour this morning.

American Can Sales Volume Sets Record

$1,107,000,000 Total; Steel Strike Reduces Earnings

Neenah—Sales of the American Can company, including those of the Marathon division, in 1959 were the highest in the company's history, but earnings were lower than the previous year as the result of the high costs of the steel strike, William C. Stolk, president, announced today.

The company's sales, based on a preliminary report of the year's operations, totaled $1,107,361,078 in 1959, an increase of 6.8 per cent over the comparable 1958 figure of $1,037,032,365. All product divisions—Marathon, Bradley, Sun, Canco, Dixie Cup—contributed to the sales increase, Stolk said.

Earnings were $40,890,769 after provision for taxes, compared with $46,432,856 in 1958. After payment of preferred dividends, earnings were equivalent to $2.42 a share on the 15,723,800 shares of common stock outstanding on Dec. 31, 1959, compared with $2.78 in 1958.

"The conditions which limited profits in 1959 were of a temporary nature and can be attributed directly to the costs due to the steel strike, which are estimated at nearly $15,000,000," Stolk said.

In the interest of protecting the needs of the Canco division customer, tin plate inventories of tremendous size became a fact the Canco division would be in a position to meet the heavy demands of customers. As a result, the company was able to meet the needs of customers throughout the strike.

cently purchased from Joseph Doerflinger south of Hoover avenue at Lawe street, and to build a softball diamond on the sewage lift station site purchased recently from Kenneth Hooymann in the northwest corner of the city.

Commissioners also are erecting the park board to erect a fence along the east boundary of Telulah park to separate the park proper from the anticipated new lighted softball field for which negotiations to buy are underway.

Lake Winnebago Petition Given To Game Group

A petition circulated by a group of Winnebago lake-shore sportsmen calling for a reappraisal of the states rough fish removal program on the big lake has been received by the conservation department.

It will now be placed on the agenda for conservation commission meetings.

The department has been operating the removal program at Lake Winnebago since 1954. Sprecher said the department considers it a successful undertaking.

"We're having some of the best walleye fishing up there this winter that we've had in many years," he said.

Commission Seeks Start of Converting Parks Into Diamonds

New School Setup Sought At Waupaca

Fiscal Independence For District to be Aired at Meeting

Waupaca — A public meeting to discuss a unified school district for Waupaca was planned by city councilmen Tuesday.

A state department of education official will be asked to present explanation of the unified system and answer questions. Town boards, area school boards and residents will be invited.

Waupaca's school system is now regulated by the school board, under city council fiscal control. A council objection as voiced by Mayor Lloyd Matheson is that the city council approves a budget they know nothing about.

Separate Control

Under a unified or other district setup, the school is separate from city government and is a taxing power in itself, responsible to school district residents.

At a recent school board meeting, hopes were expressed that the district would adopt a unified plan before any building plans were started.

Ald. John Brown said the meeting should not be meant to sell a unified plan, but to clarify it.

Building Inspector Frank Clayton said he was concentrating house renumbering work in the Second ward. Councilmen have discussed splitting the Second ward into two wards. House numbering will give an idea of the ward size.

American Can Sales Volume Sets Record

$1,107,000,000 Total; Steel Strike Reduces Earnings

Neenah—Sales of the American Can company, including those of the Marathon division, in 1959 were the highest in the company's history, but earnings were lower than the previous year as the result of the high costs of the steel strike, William C. Stolk, president, announced today.

The company's sales, based on a preliminary report of the year's operations, totaled $1,107,361,078 in 1959, an increase of 6.8 per cent over the comparable 1958 figure of $1,037,032,365. All product divisions—Marathon, Bradley, Sun, Canco, Dixie Cup—contributed to the sales increase, Stolk said.

Earnings were $40,890,769 after provision for taxes, compared with $46,432,856 in 1958. After payment of preferred dividends, earnings were equivalent to $2.42 a share on the 15,723,800 shares of common stock outstanding on Dec. 31, 1959, compared with $2.78 in 1958.

"The conditions which limited profits in 1959 were of a temporary nature and can be attributed directly to the costs due to the steel strike, which are estimated at nearly $15,000,000," Stolk said.

In the interest of protecting the needs of the Canco division customer, tin plate inventories of tremendous size became a fact the Canco division would be in a position to meet the heavy demands of customers. As a result, the company was able to meet the needs of customers throughout the strike.

Lake Winnebago Petition Given To Game Group

A petition circulated by a group of Winnebago lake-shore sportsmen calling for a reappraisal of the states rough fish removal program on the big lake has been received by the conservation department.

It will now be placed on the agenda for conservation commission meetings.

The department has been operating the removal program at Lake Winnebago since 1954. Sprecher said the department considers it a successful undertaking.

New School Setup Sought At Waupaca

Fiscal Independence For District to be Aired at Meeting

Waupaca — A public meeting to discuss a unified school district for Waupaca was planned by city councilmen Tuesday.

A state department of education official will be asked to present explanation of the unified system and answer questions. Town boards, area school boards and residents will be invited.

Waupaca's school system is now regulated by the school board, under city council fiscal control. A council objection as voiced by Mayor Lloyd Matheson is that the city council approves a budget they know nothing about.

Separate Control

Under a unified or other district setup, the school is separate from city government and is a taxing power in itself, responsible to school district residents.

At a recent school board meeting, hopes were expressed that the district would adopt a unified plan before any building plans were started.

Grand Chute Tables 2 Liquor Applications

State Orders Town to Reduce Number of Licenses in Effect and Give No More

given the new Biggar motel and the proposed Guest House Inn permission to sell beer and hard liquor.

Both motels had made applications with the understanding they would receive the licenses. They would have been issued if a 1958 tax division ruling was followed.

Requested Opinion

In November, 1958, the town requested the state division of beverage and cigaret taxation to tell it how many Class B licenses it could issue.

D. H. Prichard, director of the department, said the town license quota was 20 as of Aug. 27, 1939. The quota remained the same until 1950 when an area of the town was annexed to the city of Appleton. The area annexed had 12 taverns, reducing the town quota to eight.

But, Prichard continued, town population as of the 1950 census was 5,681 after annexation. One license per 500 people is allowed. The town then, he said, could have 12 licenses. Only nine were in effect at the time. The town could issue three more, he added.

New Director

After the two firms applied for licenses and five days before the town would have acted on the applications, a second letter was received by the town. This letter was dated Jan. 28, 1960.

A new beverage and cigaret tax division director, E. O. Jones, used the same data as did former director Prichard and came up with a different answer, board members said.

The town could issue only eight licenses because of the annexation. He did not use the 1950 census figures.

Take One Away

"In order to conform to Wisconsin statutes it will be necessary for the town of Grand Chute to reduce the number of such licenses to eight," he said. "No class B liquor licenses may be issued legally until the population, as indicated by a subsequent federal census, so warrants," he concluded.

The town issued its ninth license in 1953.

Jones also had attached to his letter an opinion by the attorney general.

One-Sided View

"This is a one-sided view of the situation," Charles Lowe, general manager in charge of construction of Guest House Inn, said. He plans to go to Madison to contest the matter.

Lowe asked the town to approve the two licenses and see what would happen. He also asked the town attorney's opinion.

Donald Herring, town attorney, said he could give no opinion immediately and advised the town not to issue the licenses at the present time.

Town Chairman Arthur Lecker refused to issue the licenses on the basis of the new state ruling.

New York — The stock market recovery ran into profit taking early this afternoon and prices turned irregularly lower.

The rebound from the steep January decline flourished for most of the first hour of trading and then prices began to slip below their best.

The market by turns became irregular and then lower as trading slackened.

The action vindicated Wall Street comment to the effect that the comeback was of a technical nature which should normally retrace about a third of the lost ground. At their best, prices of industrial stocks had recouped close to a third of their losses on average, then they began to slip.

Motors and aircraft were early pacemakers as stocks rose on a broad front. In the reaction, motors lost all their gains while aircraft remained mostly ahead.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 10 cents at $219.70 with the industrials down 70 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed.

Lawrence Says Partisan View Of Defense Political Low

Congressmen Ignore
Expert Opinions to Arouse Public

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The United States is having a hard time fighting the "cold war" because, when it does gather secret information as to a potential enemy's intentions or planning, there are members of congress who insist on having it revealed in some form.

Allen W. Dulles, director of the central intelligence agency, is repeatedly called before congress to tell what his agents and representatives behind the Iron curtain have found out. Naturally, the Soviets are interested. It has an important bearing on their own plans — to learn how much America knows about them.

What Mr. Dulles says behind the closed doors of the congressional committees is not made public, but as the members go forth they are met by the press. The members then give their "impressions" of the testimony. These might be partisan interpretations designed to discredit the administration as not being efficient in its planning, but the U. S. Central Intelligence agency is unable to point out in rebuttal where in wrong inferences are being drawn. To do so is to tell the Soviets exactly what the central intelligence agency really knows of Soviet planning.

So there is resort to generalities, and it is in this area that the politically-minded take advantage of the necessarily vague statements that have been made. Allen Dulles, emphasizing some of the difficulties, said in a speech in New York last week:

Weapon Developments
"In our estimates we generally stress capabilities in the early stages of Soviet weapons development, and then, as more hard facts are available, we estimate their probable programming, sometimes referred to as intentions. . . .

"The fact that in the later years of development we can crank into our estimates more of the elements of programming and future intentions than we can at the beginning does not indicate any change in the intelligence approach to the problem. . . .

"There is no tendency in the intelligence community to underestimate Soviet sophistication in any phase of the missile field, or the progress they have been making in developing their long-range missile system. We have not downgraded this system this year as contrasted with last year.

"However, it would be just as wrong to let the Soviet talk the world into believing that the ICBM, powerful as it is, constitutes the only armament with which a country should equip itself. I believe that the Soviets are trying to take advantage of the publicity they have achieved with respect to both missile and space programs in order to make the unsophisticated believe that these achievements mean over-all superiority in the military field.

Such superiority, in the opinion of more qualified experts than I, does not exist."

Partisan Defense
Yet the newspapers are filled with partisan claims which are designed for the American audience, but which nevertheless tell the Soviets that they are superior, that they can destroy us and we can't retaliate effectively, and that the "gap" is a matter of grave danger to our safety today.

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates, on the other hand, assures the country the United States has effective power to deter a war. This is promptly called "rosy" by Democratic leaders. All this is brushed aside as senators or representatives emerge from committee sessions.

Mr. Gates, in his latest statement to the senate subcommittee on appropriations said:

"Our retaliatory forces are capable of carrying out their assigned missions. Manned bombers are still, for both ourselves and the USSR, the primary means of delivering heavy nuclear weapons. The volume and with the accuracy needed to strike a decisive blow. In this category the United States far exceeds the USSR. . . .

Won't Produce Gap

"On the basis of all present indications, however, the advantage they might attain in numbers of long-range missiles would fall far short of providing rational support for a decision to attack. He would simply be inviting his own destruction. . . .

"In short, because of the versatility and strength of our over-all retaliatory capability, the numerical advantage that the Soviet Union may attain in long-range missiles — which is likely to be greatest in 1962 — will not produce a gap in our deterrent power. This is not my view only; it is the view of our principal military and scientific advisers."

Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, also told the same committee that our military chiefs "do not do strategic planning in an intelligence vacuum."

But how effective can such statements be as long as the partisans think they can gain votes by scaring the American people into a belief that our defenses have been bungled? It means, to be sure, telling the Soviets that we are weaker than we really are. Partisan politics has reached a new low in American history.
